Full Discussion Of Poll Issues Due From GOP

President's Press Aide Says 'Electronic Age' To Help Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's voters will hear a full discussion of the issues this election year from the Republican side, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty promised yesterday.

Hagerty also indicated that the "electronic age" (presumably television and radio) would figure importantly in President Eisenhower's campaign.

It has been previously announced Eisenhower will make five or six TV campaign speeches, some possibly originating in other parts of the country.

"We have a lot of plans," Hagerty said, but "it's a little bit too early to announce those plans particularly to the opposition party."

Referring to Eisenhower, Hagerty said, "He will campaign, but I think it will be in a little different sense than a traditional whistle-stop campaign. I do think our points of view will be fully and amply covered."

THE PRESS secretary said he thought the principal issues in the GOP view will be prosperity and what he called a transition "from war toward peace."

Another opinion of what the issues would be came from Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), the 1952 Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Sparkman said Democrats won't need to emphasize health or the "part-time President" argument to beat Eisenhower in November.

"I think the two principal issues will be the farm problem and the favoritism of this administration for big business, with its consequent disadvantage to small business," he said.

Huge Backlog Of Unsold Autos Studied

DETROIT (AP)—Despite almost unprecedented April production cutbacks, new car inventories have continued to mount.

The monthly survey of Automotive News showed today that on May 1 dealers throughout the country had 902,270 new cars jammed in warehouses and storage lots or in transit from the factories. The total compares with an April 1 figure of 898,669 units and is only 1,519 units below the record total set March 1 this year.

The auto makers built fewer cars in April than in March (547,600 units compared with 575,500) in the effort to reduce stock.

Failure of the reduction to materialize, they now say, emphasizes that the sales sag has been more serious than most industry sources realized.

On May 1 a year ago dealer inventories stood at 763,041 cars. Factory production in the first four months of 1955 came to 2,879,900 cars. Factory output for the January-April period this year was cut to 2,291,000.

Hospital Patient Killed By Engine

COLUMBUS (AP)—A 44-year-old woman patient at Columbus State Hospital was struck and killed by a New York Central passenger train yesterday as she walked down the tracks.

Police identified her as Rhea W. Harris of Columbus. They quoted the engineer, Roscoe McHaffie of Sharonville, as saying he blew the train whistle but the woman kept walking toward the train and "looked me right in the eye."

Acting Coroner Dr. Carl E. Tetrick said he probably will rule the death a suicide.

Pakistan Bares New 5-Year Plan

KARACHI, Pakistan (AP)—Prime Minister Chaudhri Mohammed Ali announced today a massive five-year plan designed to eliminate big land holdings, create two million new jobs, boost production and increase average earnings by 10 per cent. It will cost about $2½ billion.

The plan is intended to eliminate the concentration of land-ownership in a few hands, which is inconsistent with the Constitution of the new republic, Chaudhri said. The maximum amount of land a man may own will be determined later.

Forenoon or afternoon

Pupils will be registered according to the way they happen to come. Every other one will be assigned to afternoon classes.

This has always been the method used to balance the enrollment for morning and afternoon. Hartman pointed out, to avoid overloading the afternoon classes.

Age of pupil.

Pupil must be five years old by September 1, 1956.

Birth Certificate.

Parent must present child's birth certificate to complete registration.

Hartman emphasized:

"It is very essential that you register early, as plans are made for the year based upon the registration of May 24. Those not registering May 24 will be placed upon a waiting list this Fall, if there is not enough room until some drop out."

"We keep each session close to 30 pupils. The first week of school each session will be only for one hour, and then we move to the full length session."

Weekend Wind Storms Leave Toll Of 13 Dead

Cleveland Area Counts 6 Fatalities, Millions In Property Damage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Weekend tornadoes and violent storms gouged destructive trails across parts of the nation, leaving 13 dead, at least 270 injured and millions of dollars property damage.

Disastrous windstorms in the Cleveland area killed six persons, injured at least 69 and caused property damage estimated at several million dollars.

Six others were killed and more than 200 injured by 20 separate tornadoes that roared down on Michigan. Damage in Flint alone was estimated by authorities at up to $2 million.

Northern Ohio reported one other storm death when a youth drowned in a flooded ditch.

Winds of up to 70 m.p.h., accompanied by heavy rainfall, hit Cleveland and its suburbs Saturday night. Police estimated damage in the suburb of Rocky River at $5 million.

MAYOR FRANK P. Celeste of the Cleveland suburb of Lakewood estimated damage there at more than $1½ million. Lakewood police said more than 600 trees were felled by the storm.

About 1,500 civil defense auxiliary police and their volunteers aided authorities in directing traffic in the Cleveland area and clearing the streets of debris.

In South Cleveland, a man and two children were killed when a tavern collapsed under buffeting by the strong winds. Two men touched a fallen power line and a youth was killed when a tree fell on his automobile.

A threatened overflow of the Flint River in Michigan forced about 100 residents of Flint from their homes. The river was reported to be receding, but the Weather Bureau said more rain will fall today.

Three twisters struck Flint almost simultaneously Saturday. Two hundred Flint homes and a score of business establishments were either leveled or badly damaged. Overcrowded Flint hospitals took care of 107 injured persons.

Pope Approves Transplants To Aid Blind

VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII today approved the transplant of corneas from the eyes of dead persons to those of the living blind.

The pontiff warned, however, that transplant cases should be carefully selected and prudence used. The 80-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church spoke to a group of oculists who had asked for his opinion.

The pope's words were his first on cornea transplants since an Italian priest, Don Carlo Gnocchi, recently bequeathed his eyes to two blind Italian children just before he died.

"You assure me," said the pontiff, "that the transplant of the cornea is for many sick persons a means of cure or at least of improvement. That's good, use it and help them in the measure that is possible and legal, naturally selecting the cases with much care and prudence."

4 Lima Escapees Still At Large

LIMA (AP)—Four escaped inmates from Lima State Hospital were still at large today.

The four broke out of the institution early Saturday by sawing window bars on the second floor and towering themselves to the ground on an improvised rope.

Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan law enforcement agencies joined Ohio authorities in the search for the quartet, described by hospital officials as "unpredictable and possibly dangerous."

Panama Officials Counting Ballots

PANAMA (AP)—Election officials settled down today for a long count to determine Panama's new president, elected in weekend balloting. Official results were not expected for at least two weeks.

Contesting for president were Ernesto De La Guardia Jr., 51, a Dartmouth College graduate, and former Supreme Court Justice Victor Florencio Goytia, 57. Both claimed victory.

Defense Chief Warns Against Any Cut In U. S. Foreign Aid Program

Swim Lesson Plans Outlined By Red Cross

Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross announced plans today for swimming instructions, to be handled by fully qualified personnel.

Anyone wishing to enroll children for the classes should call at the local chapter office, 114½ N. Court St., between the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m. next Wednesday. It was emphasized that those who have already called the chapter office and left their names will still have to visit the office on Wednesday of this week.

Calls must be made in person, not by phone.

Due to a shortage of qualified instructors and volunteer help, the local chapter may not be able to handle all requests.

Dates for the swimming lessons have not as yet been set, but they will probably be scattered through June, July and August, depending upon the number of instructors available.

Anyone, 18 or over, holding a senior life-saving certificate is eligible to take the instructor's training course. Anyone thus qualified is asked to contact the Red Cross office here.

James Byrnes Urges Curb On High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—James F. Byrnes, a former associate justice of the Supreme Court, said today the court "must be curbed."

"Power intoxicates men," Byrnes said. "It is never voluntarily surrendered. It must be taken from them. The Supreme Court must be curbed."

Byrnes, a member of the high court in 1941-42, also is a former member of the Senate and of the House and the holder of various high offices in the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman Administrations, including the secretaryship of state in the latter. His most recent public office was as governor of South Carolina.

Byrnes assailed as a "usurpation of power" the Supreme Court's decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools and hinted that the decision may not have been unanimous, as was announced at the time it was handed down two years ago this week.

Hatkin welcomed his reinstatement as "like coming back from the living dead."

Hatkin, 40, father of two children, was suspended Feb. 28, 1955. Since then he has been awaiting the outcome of security charges that he had belonged to alleged Communist front organizations.

Crabb was seen swimming near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze and two accompanying vessels April 19, the day after "B and K" arrived in Britain.

He has not been seen since. The Admiralty said he was "presumed dead," but didn't explain why that was presumed.

Gleanings of information here and there have built up this puzzling account of the events that led up to Crabb's disappearance. The diver and a "Mr. Smith" arrived at the port of Portsmouth April 17 and checked in at the Sallport Hotel.

From the hotel Crabb wrote his aged mother that he was "going on a job, but it's a simple

Search Continues For Drowned Man

Big Darby Creek Being 'Dragged' For Body Of Circleville Resident

Sheriff's deputies from Pickaway and Ross counties continued their search today for the body of a 44-year old Circleville man believed to have drowned in Big Darby Creek last Saturday.

John Stanley Hickey was last seen wading in the creek at Dewey Park, approximately six miles northwest of here off Route 104. His companion, 39-year old Mable Merritt of 1061 Linwood Ave., reportedly was with him at the time and sounded the alarm.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards received the call and sped to the scene with Allen Trego and Don Jenkins, local residents, accompanying him. Deputy Richards notified the Circleville Fire Department and the inhalator truck with its oxygen equipment was also sent to the scene.

A net has been stretched across the creek to snare Hickey's body if it should be carried towards the Scioto River, provided it has not already passed that point. Two small boats were maneuvering today in the swiftly moving creek in "dragging" operations.

HICKEY AND Miss Merritt had gone to the park after picnicking with another couple and following at least two "drinking" stops, according to a report from the sheriff's department here. Miss Merritt reportedly revealed to a deputy in a signed statement that the two had spent nearly two hours in a S. Court St. tavern drinking.

In the statement, Miss Merritt allegedly reported that Hickey led her out into the swollen creek by the hand and told her "this is it." She said she had to "kick loose" before she could make her way back to the embankment, while Hickey disappeared.

Deputy Richards said he found Miss Merritt to be "quite intoxicated." He added that he found $492 in a wallet belonging to Hickey, plus about $19 in Miss Merritt's purse. The couple had apparently partially disrobed on the embankment near where Hickey reportedly drowned, the Deputy added.

The sheriff's department said the undercurrent in Big Darby Creek was very swift, and added that Hickey's body may have lodged against pilings. One deputy remarked that the small boat he had been in nearly upset during the "dragging."

Hickey, described as an employee of a local feed mill, became a widower a few months ago when his wife died. There are several children.

Air Force Analyst Returned To Job

WASHINGTON (AP)—A new Air Force job today awaited Sidney Hatkin as the result of a 14-month fight to clear himself of security charges.

Hatkin also will receive more than $6,000 in back pay under Secretary of the Air Force Charles' decision Saturday that it would be in the national interest to assign him as a statistical analyst in a nonsensitive position.

Hatkin welcomed his reinstatement as "like coming back from the living dead."

Hatkin, 40, father of two children, was suspended Feb. 28, 1955. Since then he has been awaiting the outcome of security charges that he had belonged to alleged Communist front organizations.

INNERTUBE BEFORE INVENTION OF THE WHEEL

I would like to suggest here and now that the Auto Industry start putting square wheels on all 1957 cars. This sounds like a revolutionary idea, and it is. Square wheels would cut the traffic accident rate down to nothing overnight. Why? Because with square wheels no one would be able to drive over 2 miles per hour. If they tried to step on the gas and speed along at maybe 4 miles an hour the square wheels would knock the car apart or shake their bridgework loose. We could also put square wheels on baby Buggies so children won't grow up feeling overprotected and square (to slow down the game.) Say, there's no limit to the possibilities of this idea.

Wilson Fears Boost In Own Military Needs

Senate Group Asked To OK New Budget Of About $4.9 Billion

WASHINGTON (AP)—Secretary of Defense Wilson told Congress today that any cut in the administration's program of foreign military assistance would run a "serious risk" to the defense of this country "and the free world."

Furthermore, he said, it would require this country to undertake a "complete re-evaluation of our own international position and of our own military budgets."

Wilson testified before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in support of the administration's $4.9 billion foreign aid program.

"Today," Wilson said, "we are helping to support about 200 divisions in the armies of our allies." This allied force, he said, "is several times the strength of our own army."

Reduced aid for these armies, he said, would require a "much greater increase" in American manpower and equipment at a much greater cost than that entailed under foreign aid.

ADM. ARTHUR W. Radford, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, cautioned against allowing "ourselves or our friends" to "fall into the trap that is being staked out for us" by Russia.

For the present, he said, the Communists seem to be relying on programs of economic, military and technical assistance because the tactics of violent revolution and overt aggression became "too hazardous" in the face of American-supported defense alliances.

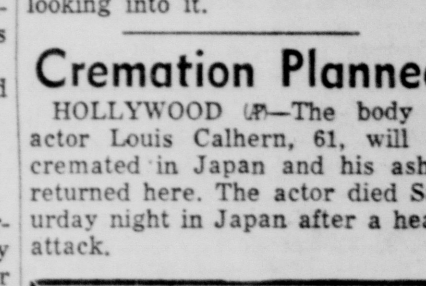

"We would be playing into the Communist hand if we failed to show clearly that we understand how important it is that the free world remain strong and invulnerable to the Communist exploitation of force," Radford said.

Wilson said U. S. air power is mightier than Russia's, and will stay mightier, but not by a "great big" margin.

The air power issue has been getting increasing attention in Congress, and a Senate Armed Services subcommittee is now looking into it.

Police, Officers, Bonding Firm Face Law Suit

Two Circleville policemen and two former members of the department are defendants along with the National Surety Company of New York, their bonding firm, in a civil action in Common Pleas Court here.

A jury of eight women and four men was seated this morning to hear the case brought by Maynard Keaton of Circleville. Keaton is asking $4,000 to compensate for damages he allegedly suffered when "forcibly" brought to the police station during the 1933 Pumpkin Show.

Almost exactly a year ago — in May of 1933—Keaton was fined $10 and costs for resisting arrest and $10 and costs for intoxication as a result of the same incident. A charge of disturbing the peace was dismissed in municipal court, where the trial was held.

The officers accused of beating Keaton include: John Lockard, a special policeman; Russell Ogden, a regular officer; Ludwell Mills, now a plant protection officer for a Columbus firm, and Alva (Pappy) Shasteen, who has since retired from the force.

KEATON ALLEGES that the officers beat him while he was being held in the police station. His attorneys are Gale King and George Gross, both of Columbus.

George Young and Joseph Adkins, both local attorneys, are defending the policemen and the bonding firm.

Surveys of previous weekends have usually showed the number of deaths to be under 20.

Pro-German Groups Win Saar Election

SAARBRUECKEN, Saar (AP)—Victorious pro-German parties in the Saar urged France today to agree to an early union of this rich industrial area with West Germany. Three pro-German political parties swept yesterday's communal elections, polling 70 per cent of the popular vote.

Bonn and Paris still are negotiating the future status of this territory, long an object of dispute between Germany and France.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sidney Hatkin was lucky. Left hanging in midair by the government — jobless and under a cloud — he found someone to fight his case in public. Then he got his job back.

It's doubtful he would have been reinstated if he hadn't asked the help of former Sen. Harry P. Cain and if Cain hadn't made his case public.

Hatkin's case points up what appear to be unnecessary delay and carelessness for individuals by the government in clearing and reinstating — or firing — government employees suspended as security risks.

Hatkin, 40, married and with children, was suspended as a security risk in February 1955 by the Air Force where he worked as he was given a three-day hearing by a security board.

It took the Air Force from then until Saturday to decide whether it was safe to let Hatkin return to work. It did so only after Cain, Washington Republican and member of the government's Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB), made a speech about Hatkin's troubles.

Except for a few weeks, Hatkin could not get a job during the 14 months of his suspension. He hadn't been fired as a security risk but he hadn't been cleared, either. He was in a state of suspension.

On Saturday Secretary of the Air Force Quarles announced he had offered Hatkin a job with the Air Force doing nonsensitive work — not near secrets. Hatkin hopes for full clearance later.

Why did it take a year after the board heard the charges against him for action in his case? The Air Force, through a Pentagon public relations man, says it takes time to handle these cases.

In a speech in New York a week ago Saturday, Cain talked of Hatkin's case without mentioning his name. Hatkin's identity was soon learned.

Cain, one of the most severe critics of President Eisenhower's program for getting security risks out of the government, cited Hatkin as an example of what he said happens to hundreds of suspended employees.

He said he knows of 416 government employees who were suspended as risks, and later reinstated, but only after some of them had waited an average of eight to nine months for a final verdict.

It is doubtful Hatkin would have been reinstated without Cain's open statement of his case. Last February a Russian employed in the Soviet Embassy contacted Hatkin after the latter had put an advertisement in a newspaper, seeking a job. The Russian asked him to gather information about the aircraft industry.

Hatkin notified the FBI at that time but two weeks ago — a week before Cain made his speech — the Air Force notified Hatkin it had tentatively decided to fire him as a security risk.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A prisoner at the Ft. Hayes guardhouse here tried to escape Sunday, but only half of him made it.

An Army spokesman said Martin Youngless, 17, Brighton Ohio, tried to squeeze through the pried-apart bars of a guardhouse window. Only his head and shoulders got through and he had to be helped back in.

A fellow prisoner, Albert D. Saltsman, 17, Leavittsburg, Ohio, managed to squeeze through the window ahead of Youngless. Columbus police picked him up an hour later.

Sunday the sheriff's office said the three had been located safe and dry. What happened?

Well, they sheepishly explained to deputies, they saw a place that looked nice so they brought the boat into shore and got out. But they forgot to turn the motor off. The three were not identified.

FARM NEWS and VIEWS

By R. S. SWENSON, County Agent

Reapportionment:

Pickaway County residents will be vitally concerned about the proposed reapportionment of the House of Representatives in the state legislature.

I had a communication recently from one of our county residents who asked that I discuss the reapportionment in this column.

My position, of course, is one of purely and simply reporting the possibilities in a move of this kind.

At the present time the membership in the House of Representatives is based upon a combination of area and population representation. Each county has at least one member in the House of Representatives.

If the House were reapportioned as proposed Pickaway County would be grouped with several other counties in their membership in the legislature. The metropolitan counties would have several more representatives than they have at the present time. The Ohio Senate is apportioned on the basis of population. This is directly opposite to the system in the United States Congress where the Senate is apportioned on the basis of area only and the House of Representatives is apportioned on the basis of population.

Scholarships: Each year Chester S. Hutchison, assistant dean of the college of agriculture, releases a list of scholarships available to freshman entering Ohio State University.

Pasture: The pasture season is just around the corner. As a matter of fact, we are 2 to 3 weeks late in pasture growth, however, by using good sound practices a high tonnage can be realized from an acre of pasture. The most efficient way of utilizing pasture is to use a system of rotation grazing when possible.

Farmers are advised to plan a complete pasture program for the entire season. Permanent pasture becomes very short and poor in August and in some cases a supplemental summer pasture must be provided.

Sudan grass, properly handled, will do a good job of providing the summer pasture. We have information concerning the management of Sudan grass for interested farmers.

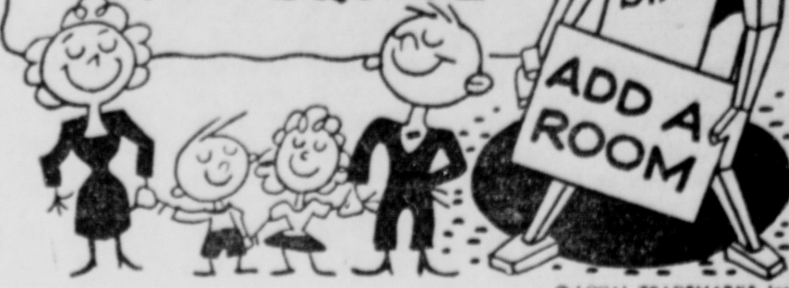

a WITCH DOCTOR is cheaper!

But the few extra dollars that you pay for reliable modern prescriptions save you time and money in the long run. Why? Because today rapid recoveries can often be made with just a single prescription. Burdensome expenses involved in long sickness are eliminated. As recently as ten years ago, your doctor had to rely upon medicines that were slow-acting and uncertain. True, your prescription cost less then, but today, because of modern research, you get far greater results for your medicine-dollar.

RUBBER DISCOVERY

A NEW scientific discovery by American industry has individuals from the Pentagon to Soviet Russia sitting on the edges of their seats. This time it is "natural" rubber, produced synthetically.

Since the turn of the twentieth century, when rubber prices began climbing, U. S. scientists have been trying to produce a synthetic product having the same composition and properties as natural rubber. The closest they have been able to come to it was the production of general purpose GR-S and similar synthetic types during World War II.

These World War II synthetics do not have the same composition as natural rubber and, while greatly improved since their introduction, do not perform as satisfactorily as natural rubber in certain products. It is interesting to note, however, that synthetic rubber now accounts for 61 per cent of the total new rubber consumed in the United States.

This nation, of course, is dependent 100 per cent for its natural rubber supply on such far-away and restless countries as Ceylon, Liberia and Malaya. In case of war these sources could be cut off, as they were during World War II. It was only the inventive genius of civilian scientists then that kept the U. S. Armies rolling.

Although no great urgency to produce natural rubber remains, any successful attempt upon the part of scientists to produce a natural product synthetically is worthy of commendation. Furthermore, the discoverers of the new process, Goodrich-Gulf Chemicals, Inc., expect the price of the laboratory product eventually to be far less than that of the imported variety.

MORE AAU NONSENSE

HOW RIDICULOUS can the Amateur Athletic Union make itself appear?

This is a pertinent question as AAU officials persist in their persecution of Wes Santee, the great Kansas miler who was barred from amateur competition because he took his "pay" a little more openly than some.

The latest episode has the AAU declaring ineligible for AAU competition the entire track team of William and Mary College. This because two members ran against Santee in a meet in which Santee represented the Quantico Marines.

The whole idea of "amateur" versus "professional" is so silly that one wonders how straight-faced men can accept it. Those who call the AAU officials a bunch of hypocrites are right.

All of this may seem of less than earth-shaking importance. But as long as athletes continue the farce of pretending to be amateurs and yet accepting pay on the side what must the youth of this nation think? This is a strange way to teach sportsmanship.

It seems about time that the whole matter of amateur and professional athletics be reexamined and put on a realistic basis.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Whereas to the professors, politics is the science of government, to the politicians politics is the art of getting on in public affairs. It is all a matter of viewpoint and while the professors would recognize those aspects of government that do not appear to be perfect, the politician knows that in a free society most of the people want to be left alone to their own devices and are willing to pay for it, if the tax is not too high.

The professional politician often prefers to let amateurs, or rather unprofessionals, take the lead in an election year because it looks better. The professional figures that in the end he will manipulate the situation so that he has what he needs which is not the power to articulate philosophies of government and principles of statecraft, but patronage.

For it is patronage which keeps a party together and while many denounce it, all professionals practise it. And somehow, it does not take an outsider long to understand that even if he got a public position by accident, if he wants re-election, he must keep his organization together and that means patronage. This is what Governor Allan Shivers may have learned as a result of his contest for power with Lyndon Johnson in Texas. Party loyalty, in that election, paid off.

In such a contest as now is taking place in the Democratic Party, it needs to be noted that Stevenson and Harriman are not regarded as professionals, whereas Ke-fauver and Lyndon Johnson are. To the active manipulator of political votes either in Conventions or in Congress, it is not so very important who gets the nomination for President, so long as he is a good guy who understands political organization and sees to it that the patronage in each state goes to the right man. Party loyalty is demanded of unprofessionals and mugwumps are usually disliked.

During the first year of the Eisenhower Administration, patronage was being used to kill off the Taft forces in each state. Taft died and time healed old wounds and a number of Taft followers were given good positions in the Government, some even close to President Eisenhower.

In New York State, however, all patronage continued to go to Thomas E. Dewey who is one of the most skillful professional politicians in the country, but could not do for himself what he did for Eisenhower, get into the White House. Whereas the Taft people can get along with most of the Eisenhower people, and realistically have to, none of them want to get along with Dewey in any political enterprise upon which he may engage.

This creates a bit of a situation when it is rumored that it has become impractical for the Republicans to nominate Jacob K. Javits for the United States Senatorship to run against the aged Herbert Lehman who will be renominated by the Democrats. Therefore, it is being suggested that Tom Dewey run for U. S. Senator with the blessing of the Eisenhower Administration.

In the old days, when Dewey was Governor of the State of New York, it was necessary for every practical Republican politician to cater to his ego, to bow before his shrine in order to get state patronage. Now that Averell Harriman is Governor, the state patronage goes to the Democrats anyhow, so why should a Republican worry about Dewey?

Choosing The Right Frames For Glasses

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ARE you wearing the right glasses?

The lens prescription may be all right, but what about the frames?

While this may be going a little far afield in a health column, I'm going to give you some advice about selecting frames which will suit you best, for appearance as well as from a medical standpoint. For there still are some who feel embarrassment at wearing spectacles.

For Glamour

Actually, glasses can glamorize your face. The Better Vision Institute has set up a few basic rules for selecting the right pair.

If your nose is long, you'll want a frame with a low nose-bridge. This will make your nose appear shorter. Conversely, a high bridge will lengthen a snub nose.

For eyes that are too close together, try frames with ornamentation at the outer corners. Very small lenses not only cut your field of vision, but they also make your eyes appear little and close-set.

Pinched Look

Unless the frames are at least as wide as your face at the cheekbones, they are apt to give it a pinched look. If you have a small face with delicate features, slender, comparatively inconspicuous frames probably will be more becoming.

Large specs, however, help balance a full, round face with prominent features.

For this full, round face, angular shaped frames will look better than round ones. Most men, incidentally, prefer angular designs because they are considered more masculine.

Color of Frames

Remember that the color of the frames should harmonize with your eyes, hair and complexion.

A blonde with light eyes, for example, looks attractive in deep blue, blue green, gold or dark tortoise shell.

A blonde with brown or black eyes can wear medium green, coral, Chinese red, gold and light amber tones or tortoise shell to good advantage.

A brunette with light eyes probably should choose deep blue, blue green, silver, white gold or light pink tortoise shell.

Dark Eyes

A brown or black-eyed brunette generally looks better in deep yellow, tomato red, gold, green and light or flesh-colored tortoise shell.

Redheads can select any shade of green, coral, cocoa, gold or dark to medium tones of tortoise shell. I think you'll feel a lot better knowing that your glasses improve your appearance.

CHAPTER 21

VAL TRIED the communicating bathroom door, but that too was locked. Still feeling worried, she went slowly up the stairs to the main deck where they were dancing. Dirk was waiting for her and she told him about being unable to get into Mrs. Featherstone's cabin.

"For heaven's sake, Val, don't look so concerned about it," he said, laughing. "Aunt May is very partial to a drop of champagne."

"But is it good for her? What does Doctor Mangin say?"

"He goes on the principle that anything that will cheer her up is good for her, and there's a lot to be said for that theory. She wouldn't let you to find her tipping. Come on, Val, smile, be gay. Let's dance. This is a gala night."

Dirk's explanation of Mrs. Featherstone's behavior sounded reasonable, but she reminded herself that the physical welfare of the older woman was her responsibility—and Bruce had insisted that the health of everyone on this ship was his sole responsibility. But surely there was no need to run to a ship's doctor because your patient was over-indulging herself by drinking champagne?

But she would mention it to Bruce, if he asked her to dance. If he asked her to dance, she found herself glancing about the floor for him.

"Haven't you heard you should concentrate on your dancing?" Dirk reproved her smilingly.

"I've told you I wasn't a good dancer. Why do you dance with me?" Her voice was suddenly ragged.

"It wouldn't occur to you that whether you're a good dancer or not, I would like to hold you in my arms even in this conventional way?"

She looked quickly toward him, but he wasn't laughing at her. Her sense of embarrassment increased. She tried to make a joke of it.

"You do say the nicest things," he said.

Dirk, I wish I could believe you meant them."

"Oddly I meant that," he said. "She knew now that he was serious, but she didn't want any further emotional complications on her hands. She liked Dirk very much, but she wanted him as a friend."

"I suppose everyone means everything they say on carnival night," she said, and laughed forcedly.

"You knew I meant that, Val, but you don't want to believe it. Haven't you had any clue to my feelings for you? Maybe I don't understand women so well, not young ones anyhow, but remember I was brought up in a man's household. Up to now I've felt more at home with older women. I suppose psychologists would say that subconsciously I was seeking my mother in them. He gave a faint smile. "It isn't always easy to understand your own reactions, is it?"

"No," she agreed.

"But," his voice became firmer, "I know I'm not looking for my mother in you. I'm looking for something entirely different."

She could no longer even pretend not to understand what he meant. "I wish you wouldn't say things like that, Dirk. Not now. Please continue to be my friend." She spoke in a low voice and looked up at him pleadingly.

"My dear, I'm sorry." His voice too was low. "I won't worry you again. Not tonight anyway. I only thought it might help."

The music stopped and two of the other passengers, a young honeymoon couple, came over to talk to them. Val was thankful for the interruption. What Dirk had said had only added to her emotional confusion. Bruce had made no attempt to come near her, although during this interval she was standing quite near them, talking to a willowy young blonde.

Suddenly, unreasonably, she found herself hating the blonde girl. She had seen Bruce talking on deck to the same girl several times previously and they had been leaning close together by the railing this afternoon as she passed by. They were laughing together now. . . . She longed to move abruptly away from them, but almost as though Dirk had read her mind again, he suggested they all go into the lounge and split a bottle of champagne.

Val scarcely ever drank, and that may have been the reason why the one glass of champagne went slightly to her head. The young man asked her to dance and Dirk partnered his wife, but as soon as they reached the dance floor the pursuer, who was acting as master of ceremonies, announced that this dance would be a Paul Jones.

"Oh blast it, you'll be swept away from me in a moment," the young man commented, smiling sourly.

A few minutes after they'd begun dancing the pursuer blew his whistle, they formed two circles in the usual way and presently changed partners. The second time the whistle blew Val found herself almost directly facing Bruce. By all the rules of the dance he should have claimed her as his partner.

But instead, he stepped lightly to one side and grabbed a vivacious buxom woman most unsuitably dressed as a little girl. Some other man claimed Val, but she didn't know who it was, nor care. Her feeling of bewildered hurt had changed to a sharp sense of anger. How dare he treat her like that?

The pursuer, who prided himself on his ingenuity even when it came to running a Paul Jones, provided her with an excuse. This time when he blew the whistle he called, "Ladies on one side of the floor, gentlemen to the other." And when they had arranged themselves, he blew his whistle again and called, "Ladies, choose your partners!"

There was a slight pause and a titter from the women; then as the band struck up again, they started across the floor in some embarrassment, but Val literally flew. She had to go to Bruce before any of the other women.

Why Do I Love You, Mom?

--By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—An open letter to Mrs. P. E. Boyle, a lady parent in Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Mama:

You are one of the world's hardest kids to please on Mother's Day.

The ordinary presents are no good at all. You don't want jewelry. If your children buy you flowers or candy, you say, "It's just a waste of money." They can't give you money with any sense of satisfaction because they know you won't spend it on yourself. You'll just put it away in an old sock for your grandchildren.

"Oh, don't give me anything—Mother's Day is just a bunch of nonsense," you say. Your happiest Mother's Days have been the ones on which you spent five hours turning your face cherry red over a cookstove fixing a family feast—in the years when the whole family could be there to enjoy it.

What could one who was away do to please you except to call you long distance and tell you he missed you and wished he was home? It is hard to give anything to a woman who has spent her life giving to others.

The only thing I have to offer you is the one thing you have never asked for—appreciation. And so today, I'd like to send you a valentine on the day after Mother's Day, the first and probably (sons being what they are) the only love letter of my life to you.

Why do I love you? Let me count the reasons—just a few:

I love you because you are my mother, not only of my body but of my spirit's hunger.

I love you because, when your five young children were tearing the house apart, you would mustle about placidly. "Now, if I just hadn't married and had you children, I could have got a nice quiet job as a nurse. That's what I really wanted to be." That's what you were, too.

I love you because when I deserved and needed a switching I got it—not later, but right then when I knew I had done wrong, felt guilty, and recognized I should be punished.

I love you because you never let tomorrow's sun rise on yesterday's anger.

I love you because, when I had a bad case of puppy love shortly after kindergarten, you never thought it was something to joke about.

I love you because you played no favorites among your children. Your only favorite child (this is still true) was the one that most needed your understanding help at the time.

I love you because, although your whole life has been spent in the shelter of your home, you could always meet a stranger and tell in 10 minutes whether he was a phony or a good human being.

I love you because when the cat had too many kittens you couldn't bear to have them drowned. (With five kids yourself you could understand the mother cat).

I love you because, although you had only a third grade education, you never ceased reading and learning and widening the horizon of your own mind. And from your mind my mind caught fire.

I love you because you always watered and fed my adolescent dreams and, no matter how high they blazed, how silly they seemed to others, you never turned the damper down.

I love you because you have never been able to finish telling a funny story. You get so tickled you start laughing, and you laugh so hard everybody else begins to laugh—and then you forget how the story ends. But everybody's had a good time.

I love you because when quarrels arose, as they do in every large family, you never took sides, but quietly used the weight of your love in a way to bring back balance and harmony.

I love you because, when dad died nearly 19 years ago, you refused to turn into a self-pitying widow. Time has mellowed you. It cannot shrivel or defeat you.

I love you because, now that your children have grown, you refuse to try to run their lives. You merely say mildly, "Learn to sit loosely in the saddle of life."

I love you because, although you and I have always felt free to talk to each other about anything, from the Whims of God to the frailties of man, I feel I really know less about you than almost anyone I know at all. You have always held a mystery to me, and you always will. The more you love people, the more you realize there is a part of them you cannot ever know.

Finally, I love you because I know that when you read this you will be embarrassed and say, "Now, why did he have to do that? Can't he think of something more important to write about than that?"

Well, not today, mom. Respectfully,
Your loving son,
Harold

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband was an only child and has a very possessive nature. We have been married 17 years and he gets worse instead of better. He doesn't just own his house, car, boats, fishing gear, cameras, etc., but he possesses me along with them. He has to know what I am doing or thinking, day and night. I haven't a shred of privacy, of mind, soul or body.

He wants no one around but us. Guests are tolerated occasionally, if they leave early and he can be in bed by 10 p. m. He takes me along on hunting and fishing trips and to his college reunions — the only wife — and I am perfectly miserable. When he goes to the barber, takes the car to be washed, drives someone to the station, I must go too. I think he would take me to work with him if he could.

If I am in the kitchen, so is he. If I loiter in the bath, he's there to ask why. Recently I left him in the garden talking to a neighbor, and went in to get lunch. He soon came after me storming that I'd left him stranded with a bore.

If I shampoo my hair or do my nails when he's home, he objects. When he's at leisure he wants my undivided attention.

Can you help me understand what makes him tick — before my nerves explode?

V. Y.

DEAR V. Y.: You are more of a chameleon than an adult of integrity, in dealing with your husband's infantile demandingness. Thus in effect you conspire with him, to perpetuate the Siamese twin act you detest.

You put up with his parasitism, in a mood of expediency, while feeling martyred about it — and it might be a step towards emotional health, to ask yourself why you make this craven accommodation

Postmen Lose Pay; Postman Is Blamed

EAST LIVERPOOL — City mail carriers went unpaid Saturday — their checks were lost in the mail.

Samuel Brown, acting postmaster, said the checks of the 20 foot carriers did not arrive Friday with those of the clerks.

He said officials at the regional office in Cincinnati apparently mailed them to the wrong city.

American Rabbis Going To Soviet

NEW YORK — A group of American rabbis plans a trip to Russia soon to renew broken spiritual ties with the Jewish community there. Rabbi David Hollander of New York, president of the Rabbinical Council of America, said the Orthodox unit had obtained permission to send a delegation to the Soviet Union this year. No date was set.

Ohio Hog Prices Show Increase

COLUMBUS — Prices received by farmers for live hogs at 85 central and western Ohio markets last week ranged from $15.25 to $16.25 on average No. 2 good butcher hogs, the Ohio Department of Agriculture reports.

The top of $16.25 was reached Friday on No. 2 hogs, the highest price paid since Sept. 20, 1955. The average for the week was $15.75 or 75 cents higher than last week's average. Graded No. 1 meat type hogs started at $15.75 Monday and closed at $16.75 Friday on a steady tone.

Sow prices also showed a gradual price increase during the five-day trading period. Choice light-weight sows weighing under 350 pounds sold generally from $13.25 to $14 during the week.

Bicycle, Child Sink In Canal

GOEUBIN, France — Roger Second, a fisherman, was riding his bicycle along a canal with his daughter, Monique, 4, fastened securely to the carrier behind him. The bike went out of control and plunged into the canal. Second was thrown clear and swam to safety but Monique, still firmly attached to the bike, sank.

A bargeman using a long boat hook pulled up the bicycle with Monique still attached. Firemen revived her.

Jewish Group Urges Firm Stand By U.S.

CLEVELAND — The American Jewish Committee says the United States should warn potential aggressors in the Middle East that its power "will be aligned against them."

The opinion was expressed in a resolution approved Sunday at the final session of the committee's three-day national executive board meeting. It said that "once adequate defensive arms have been obtained by Israel, serious consideration should be given to the limitation of further military supplies in the area."

The AJC affirmed its support of Secretary of State Dulles' proposals last August for settlement of the Middle East problem. It asserted, however, that Dulles' long-range objectives "will not be accomplished until the pall of fear is removed and the basic conditions of peace established."

"These include," the committee added, "no change of the status quo by either side through the force of arms, cessation of any and every aggressive act on the part of any nation, withdrawal of all blockades and economic boycotts and elimination of hate propaganda."

In other resolutions, the AJC said:

1. No credence can be given to assurances of Communist leaders that they have renounced oppressive policies against minorities, including Jews, until they have freed the victims of anti-Semitic purges from prisons, retracted anti-Semitic charges made at former purge trials and restored religious and cultural freedom to the Jews.

2. The government of West Germany should take immediate action against "an upsurge of anti-democratic and anti-Semitic literature" in the country.

New Stars Seen Appearing In Ohio Political Firmament

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Primary elections put several new stars in Ohio's political firmament.

Returns reminded the "old pros", lest they forget, that "youngsters" are quick to master complex rules of a high stakes game and make tough competitors.

Two promising newcomers to the state scene, from their showing in Tuesday's voting, are Chalmers P. Wylie, 35, Columbus city attorney, and William Cody Kelly, 34, Cincinnati councilman.

Wylie, for four years an assistant Ohio attorney general, showed surprising strength in his first bid for elective state office.

Politicians credited him with taking enough Cuyahoga County votes from Harry T. Marshall, 55, Cleveland councilman for 20 years, to let William Saxbe, 39, the Republican nomination for attorney general.

Saxbe, Mechanicsburg attorney and former Ohio House speaker, emerged from a four-man race with a margin of barely 3,000 votes. He was better known than Wylie because of an unsuccessful attempt to beat Sen. George H. Bender, 59, former state senator and seven-term congressman, for the Republican U. S. senatorial nomination two years ago. Bender went on to win election by barely 3,000 votes after a recount. He was unopposed for renomination this year.

Wylie came with 6,000 votes of equaling Marshall's 30,000 total in populous Cuyahoga County last Tuesday. Saxbe got 15,000 votes in the county. Unofficial statewide totals gave Saxbe 160,174, Marshall 157,004 and Wylie 125,686.

Kelly, serving his second term as councilman, was runnerup to Paul M. Herbert, 61-year-old political veteran, in a three-way race for the GOP lieutenant governor nomination.

But Herbert still had too much on the ball for Kelly who was honored in 1954 as "man of the year" by the Cincinnati Junior Chamber of Commerce and one of five outstanding young men in Ohio by the Ohio State Jaycees.

Herbert boasts a record of four terms in the Legislature and four as lieutenant governor. He was unsuccessful in a bid for governor in 1944. Recently Herbert made headlines by directing the State Supreme Court appeal of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, suburban Cleveland osteopath, from his wife-murder conviction.

Third contestant with a creditable showing in the lieutenant governor race was Tennyson Guyer, 41, Findlay tire company official and lecturer who formerly served as Celina mayor and councilman.

Outstanding example of youthful success was 40-year-old Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill. He displayed championship style in outdistancing Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, 42, former Medina mayor, for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

O'Neill actually is a political veteran despite his youth. He served six terms as state representative, one of them as House speaker and one as majority floor leader, before winning three terms as attorney general.

O'Neill's Nov. 8 election opponent will be Michael V. DiSalle, another veteran at 48. The former Toledo mayor and federal price controller made two unsuccessful bids for the U. S. Senate, the last in 1952 against GOP Sen. John W. Bricker.

DiSalle won the gubernatorial nomination by beating Cleveland Municipal Judge John E. Sweetney, 58, former secretary of state, and three younger newcomers. They were Robert W. Reider, 39, Port Clinton publisher and former state representative; 42-year-old Mayor Frank X. Kryzan of Youngstown and Oscar L. Fleckner, 46, Columbus shoe company official and former state liquor director.

Former Congressman Stephen M. Young of Cleveland at 67 gave 40-year-old Paul M. Ward of Columbus a political lesson. Young ran away with a four-man race for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. Ward, the party nominee in 1952 and 1954, was a distant second.

Mayor R. Edward Tepe of Norwood was runner-up in the Democratic lieutenant governor race to John Taylor, 57, Salem printer and former state senator. Tepe, 45 years old.

The Democratic sprint for state treasurer demonstrated the advantage of a good vote-getting name. John Brown, 33-year-old Willoughby car salesman, sent the campaign season in Florida but got 166,399 votes. Winner of the nomination was John W. Donahy, 51, Hudson, with 241,026 votes.

Donahy carries a better known Democratic name. He is the second of six living sons of the late governor and U. S. Sen. A. V. (Vic) Donahy.

Riding a vote-getting tide was State Auditor James A. Rhodes, 46, who gained Republican renomination unopposed with 509,368 votes. The former Columbus mayor tried unsuccessfully two years ago to block Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche's bid for a fifth term.

Lausche, 60, who won two more terms as governor than any other Ohioan, was unopposed this year for the Democratic U. S. senatorial nomination.

The only reason is that Dewey still controls the Federal patronage which is mostly disposed of, anyhow, by now. So actually there is no reason why any Republican leader should take his votes to Tom Dewey and most of them will not.

Therefore, if the Eisenhower political manipulators impose Dewey upon the New York State Republicans, they might have to accept him as a nominee, but does that mean that they will have to vote for him on Election Day? Not at all. Most of the party professionals will do the best they can to defeat Dewey and to get him out of their hair, as it were.

And that is the talk that is going around here in both Republican and Democratic circles. In the latter, they still think that Dewey will make a stab at the Vice Presidency if any veritable opposition to Nixon arises, which Republicans who will be convention delegates do not believe will happen.

Fostoria Brothers Given Sentences

TIFFIN (AP)—Two Fostoria brothers sentenced here for burglary have been sent to separate institutions.

Frank J. Thompson, 21, charged with burglary of a Fostoria restaurant, was sentenced to 1-15 years in the Ohio Penitentiary. Melvin, 23, was sentenced to a similar term in Mansfield Reformatory for a burglary in nearby Bascom.

Man, Daughter Sought By Police

OXFORD (AP)—A young girl who was bitten by a fox and her father who killed the animal were sought by officials of Hueston Woods State Park today. Officials want to determine if the fox had rabies.

Park Manager Ken Hovens said he had no clues to the identity of the two, except that they planned to see a doctor in Dayton. The manager said the man took the dead fox with him after shooting it yesterday.

Toledo Methodist Leader Assigned

COLUMBUS (AP)—Dr. John W. Cheney, Toledo District superintendent of the Methodist Church, has been appointed associate superintendent of the Methodist Children's Home in nearby Worthington, Bishop Hazen G. Werner has announced.

Bishop Werner said Dr. Cheney

Children Dig Up Treasure In Bills

COLD SPRING, Minn. (AP)—Three small children of Victor Weber and a neighbor boy digging in a garden found broken pieces of a bottle. Alongside the glass the youngsters found two rolls of stained $20 bills.

About $500 was in good condition. Some bills, badly deteriorated have been sent to the Treasury Department in Washington to determine if they are redeemable.

A barn once stood where the Weber children, David, 9; Darlene, 8, and Patrick, 7, and a playmate, Michael Trueman, 8, unearthed the treasure, estimated at nearly $1,000.

Race Discrimination Laid To Ohio Union

CLEVELAND (AP)—The city's Community Relations Board has set a public hearing for May 22 on a complaint by a Negro electrician that he had been barred from a union because of his race.

The hearing in the first case of a discrimination charge to go this far under Cleveland's fair employment practices ordinance will be the first of its kind in Ohio.

Theodore Pinkston, 30, made the complaint against Local 38 of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The union had no comment.

Crippled Woman Kills Her Husband

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (AP)—A mother crippled by polio hobbled on crutches to a neighbor's home Sunday to report she had shot and killed her husband.

Policeman Jack Barry said Mrs. Naomi Larimer, 33, related that she fired a shotgun at her husband's chest because he was drunk and abusive.

She was held without charge. Mrs. Larimer and her husband Noble, 33-year-old laborer, had two children, 3 years and 21 months.

Ike 'Saluted' At Gridiron Club Affair

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower was saluted by the Gridiron Club Saturday night as "the first Republican candidate in history who can give medical proof he's got a heart."

Many another quip was tossed into the tobacco smoke as the organization of 50 Washington correspondents held their 71st annual dinner and fun-poking session.

The President was the guest of honor. Among 500 other diners were members of the Cabinet, Congress, the Supreme Court and diplomatic corps, as well as a group of editors and publishers.

Few among the high and mighty escaped unscathed during the evening of skits and songs. The spoofing was friendly but barbed.

By tradition, the only toast of the dinner was to President Eisenhower. His reply was off the record, as were the remarks of Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, who spoke for the Republican party, and Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Senate majority leader, who spoke for the Democrats.

One speech on the record, however, was that of Roscoe Drummond of the New York Herald Tribune, the club's president.

"Surely," he said, "the President must be very pleased tonight to see among us so many fine conservative humanitarians — those Republicans eager to march forward with Eisenhower protesting every step of the way."

Drummond didn't neglect the Democrats. He remarked: "After a moderately long deliberation, a jury of Democrats has

Unhappy Lover Drives Off Pier

LONG BEACH, Calif. (AP)—David Railsback, 17, met death in the deep water of Long Beach Harbor Sunday, police reported after he drove the family car "screaming wide open" off a fishermen's pier. Authorities, who termed it a suicide, blamed a lovers' quarrel. Rosanne Hegg, 15, Railsback's date for a Saturday night movie, was quoted as saying they had a quarrel and he "drove away mad" after taking her home.

In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM

In Loving Memory of William H. Best who passed away five years ago today May 14, 1951.

Five sad and lonely years have passed. Since our great sorrow fell, the shock we received that day, we still remember well. More and more each day we miss him. Friends may think the wound has healed.

Little do they know the heartaches, that are in our heart today. To think we could not say "Goodbye", will always bring regrets, but the ones who love him are the ones who won't forget.

William E. Best and Family.

This is the sixth in a series of quotes from "Car Life" consumer analysis — an independent source — on the 1956 Buick.

ECONOMY

Surprisingly good, considering a new test car and high-speed travel, for a heavy car and large displacement engine. If driven conservatively, the smaller Buicks should give 16 or 17 miles per gallon.

Pitcher Trades Immediate Help To St. Louis

Phillies Swap-Offs Aid Cardinals In Winning Pair From Chicago

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Traders Frank Lane and the St. Louis Cardinals have drawn first blood in their big five-hurder trade with the Philadelphia Phillies.

Aided considerably by the pitching of Murry Dickson and Herman Wehmeier, the two right-handers acquired from the Phillies last Thursday, the Cardinals swept a double header from Chicago Sunday 3-2 and 14-7 to stay on the heels of the flying Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves continued their blistering early pace, overwhelming the Cincinnati Redlegs 15-0 and 6-1 to continue on top of the National League percentage-wise but they still trail the Redbirds by a half game thanks to Dickson and Wehmeier.

The Braves combined brilliant pitching by Warren Spahn and Ray Crone with some lousy hitting to record their 10th and 11th victories in 15 games. Spahn paced nine hits as he posted his second shutout of the season and 36th of his career, tops among active National League pitchers.

Only a second inning home run by Cincinnati's George Crowe prevented Crone from duplicating Spahn's shutout performance in the nightcap. The Braves pounded eight Cincinnati hurriers for 29 hits in the twin bill with Eddie Mathews, Danny O'Connell and Johnny Logan getting four apiece.

Dickson made his first start in his new uniform Sunday and pitched six-hit ball for 8 2-3 innings. In the opener, Ellis Kinder disposed of the last batter to insure the first triumph of the season for Dickson. Wehmeier, working in relief, hurled two scoreless rounds in the nightcap as the Cards overcame a 5-0 deficit.

The fine pitching by the two veterans came simultaneously with a poor exhibition by Harvey Haddix, one of the three pitchers Cards General Manager Lane turned over to the Phillies. The other two are Ben Flowers and Stu Miller. Haddix was bombed by Pittsburgh for six runs in less than six innings as the Pirates came from behind to defeat Philadelphia 11-9 in the first game.

The second game was suspended in the eighth inning because of Pennsylvania's Sunday 6 p.m. curfew law with the Phillies leading 6-2.

Brooklyn's Dodgers swept the three-game series with New York, defeating the Giants 6-4 to climb into third place past the Redlegs. Duke Snider clouted a pair of homers, one coming with the bases full, to drive in five runs.

New York and Cleveland, running one-two in the American League, were held to splits leaving the Yankees still one game in front of the Indians. Baltimore rebounded from an 11-2 thrashing to defeat the league leaders 5-1. Kansas City ended Cleveland's four-game winning streak with a 5-2 triumph behind the four-hit pitching of Art Ditmar but the Tribe roared back with a 9-4 second game victory.

Chicago, in third place, picked up a half game on the leaders, thrashing the Detroit Tigers 8-1 for Billy Pierce's fourth triumph. Boston, in fourth place, defeated Washington 5-3 to salvage the finale of its three-game set with the Senators.

Redleg Road Trip Expected To Tell Much

CINCINNATI (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs spend the next 19 days on the road, and the trip is likely to show much about first sacker Ted Kluszewski.

A lot of questions came up yesterday after the benching of Big Klu—a Goliath among the Redleg "muscle men."

Manager Birdie Tebbetts benched the home run slugger after Klu made two errors in the first game of the doubleheader with Milwaukee's Braves.

Tebbetts said, "I had decided before the games that Klu would play in only one of them." The manager did not elaborate.

Kluszewski's first error — dropping a throw from shortstop Roy McMillan—allowed one Brave to score and another to reach third and eventually to reach home.

The errors are an unusual development this season for the 32-year-old first baseman. Yesterday's muffs were his sixth and seventh of the season; last year he made only eight.

The Reds were shut out for the first time this season, 15-0, in the opener, lost the second 6-1.

The upcoming road trip will tell much about the Redlegs who made a rapid ascent of the National League standings to second place, but have dropped to fourth, losing four of their last six games.

The Reds first play the Pittsburgh Pirates tomorrow night, with Joe Nuxhall slated to oppose Dick Littlefield.

The fine pitching by the two veterans came simultaneously with a poor exhibition by Harvey Haddix, one of the three pitchers Cards General Manager Lane turned over to the Phillies. The other two are Ben Flowers and Stu Miller. Haddix was bombed by Pittsburgh for six runs in less than six innings as the Pirates came from behind to defeat Philadelphia 11-9 in the first game.

The second game was suspended in the eighth inning because of Pennsylvania's Sunday 6 p.m. curfew law with the Phillies leading 6-2.

Indians Face Opportunity To Lead AL

CLEVELAND (AP)—Yesterday's doubleheader split with Kansas City sends the Cleveland Indians against the New York Yankees to-night with an opportunity to grab the American League lead for the first time this season.

While the Indians lost to the Athletics 5-2, then won 9-4, the Yankees split with Baltimore. That left the Tribe tied with New York in the lost column, but with two less victories.

Johnny Kucks (3-1), who beat Cleveland in New York, will pitch against Bob Lemon (4-1) tonight. Lemon won the rubber game of last week's three-game series in New York. He needs a victory to-night to lift his 25-25 mark against the Yankees into the black ink.

The Indians got only four hits off Art Ditmar in yesterday's opener but rapped a dozen hits in the nightcap, including three-run homers by Al Rosen and Rocky Colavito.

In the opener the Athletics drove Bob Feller off the mound in the third inning with his first 1936 loss. Three of four men Feller walked scored during two-run Kansas City rallies in the first and third innings.

Harry Simpson had three of the visitors' seven hits. He doubled home a run in the first inning, singled one home in the second and contributed a seventh-inning single to a one-run rally against Cal McLish, who relieved Feller.

The Tribe got only one rally going against Ditmar, scoring two runs in the third inning on a walk, Jim Busby's double and Bob Avila's single.

Herb Score evened his season record at 3-3 in the second game, walking four, fanning six and giving up six hits.

Auto Racing Will Resume Next Sunday

Approximately 500 stock car racing fans were disappointed Sunday when the opening day's events at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds were called off.

Track promoters declared that the group which was to supply the racing cars failed to provide enough cars. The promoters added that rather than put on "half a race," they decided to call the whole thing off.

A new association will provide the competition starting next Sunday. There will be a guaranteed purse for each race. Time trials will now be held at 1:30 p. m. beginning next Sunday. Races will start an hour later.

The promoters expressed regret at the inconvenience of those who showed up.

Minnesota '9' Paces Big Ten

CHICAGO (AP)—Minnesota's power-packed Gophers may be on their way to their first Big Ten baseball title in 21 years.

Minnesota cracked out 13 home runs in sweeping a doubleheader from Iowa Saturday, 17-7 and 18-8, to take over first place in the conference race as Ohio State's defending champions split with Northwestern.

Ohio State beat Northwestern, 3-0, but lost the second game, 4-3. Indiana split with Wisconsin, winning the opener 5-4 and dropping the nightcap, 6-2; Michigan State beat Illinois twice, 2-0 and 2-1, and Purdue beat Michigan, 7-5, in the first, lost the second, 3-1.

Finsterwald Cops St. Louis Purse

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Dow Finsterwald, 26-year-old thumper from Athens, Ohio, made a major move in pro golf circles when he won a pressure-packed victory in the $25,000 St. Louis Open.

It boosted him to the No. 2 spot among the nation's winners. Finsterwald, who only turned pro in 1952 and then spent about two years in the service, posted his fourth sub-par round at Sunset Country Club yesterday for a 72-hole total of 274, 14 under par. He won $5,000.

Landy Schedules No More Races

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—Australia's fleet John Landy, who has run the mile six times under 4 minutes, may not give himself another chance to crack his own world record of 3:58.

The Melbourne schoolteacher flies today to Miami, Fla., for a 10-day holiday after running two under-4-minute miles in seven days in a United States visit of good will for the 1956 Olympics Games in his home country.

Landy breezed the mile in 3:55.1 Saturday night in the West Coast Relays at Fresno.

Porky Oliver Wins Tourney

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. (AP)—Ed (Porky) Oliver may have discovered that playing less golf is the secret that will finally take him out of the runnerup class so often.

At least, he's going to give a try after it worked so well in bringing him victory yesterday in the White Sulphur Open, his first triumph in three years.

He won by three strokes over Sam Snead, the host pro, in his first competition in a couple of months. "It was the best golf I've played in a long time," said Oliver of his 266 for four rounds.

Nearly Million Fans See Ohio Basketball Tourneys

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—Ohio's high school basketball tournaments just missed the million mark in attendance this year.

From the county tests through the state meet where Middletown and Arcanum copped the championships, a record 989,028 fans paid a record $691,273 to see the 1052 quintets ioeinfn.

The attendance figure cracked the old record of 960,700 set in 1954, and the total receipts erased the $661,281 mark established in 1955.

Growth of the annual "lose and out" series in the last 10 years is shown by the fact that in 1946 the attendance was 782,089 and the receipts $429,066. That's a difference of 206,949 in customers, and $262,207 in receipts.

Here's a quick look at the figures for the last 12 years, showing the attendance, receipts and the Ohio High School Athletic Assn's share of the "take":

Year	Att.	Repts.	As'n
1945	570,575	$288,225	$31,286
1946	782,089	429,066	46,135
1947	871,090	497,367	45,815
1948	910,401	535,894	54,267
1949	91,977	566,171	67,746
1950	860,050	515,544	60,070
1951	862,717	558,946	62,633
1952	902,560	586,622	83,380
1953	912,094	633,634	111,045
1954	560,700	655,636	120,976

Thus, in the last dozen years, the state's tournaments have attracted 10,433,354 fans who paid a total of $6,619,658, of which $922,967 went to the state association to finance its various activities.

Instructions For Jury Service Stress American Privilege

Jurors Decide Man's Rights Under Set Law

Any Voter Eligible For Duty; Choice Made By Chance

The Pickaway County Bar Association has arranged to have a manual of information and instructions distributed to those called upon for jury service. Because of the important subjects with which it deals, The Herald will bring the contents of the booklet to all its readers.

The first two of 14 sections in the manual appear below, written for those selected as jurors.

1. Trial by Jury, an American Heritage

Congratulations!

You have been selected to exercise one of the greatest privileges of our American way of life—you, an Ohio jury member, have been granted a near-divine power; the legal authority to determine the rights of a fellow man.

This responsibility and privilege is one of the most important rights allowed to be exercised by men and women in the free world and they who serve as jurors are nurturing one of the fundamental roots of democracy.

As a trial moves toward a climax, you will sit as a judge of the facts in a dispute that has arisen between two or more of your neighbors or perhaps as a judge of the facts in an alleged violation of a law by a fellow citizen.

In every law action, a jury is confronted with an important difference of opinions, a confusion of facts, plus the task of interpreting acts, deeds and statements. You must then reach a decision as to which set of facts you believe to be true.

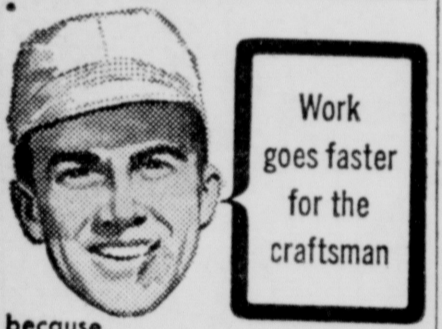

You jurors will be the sole judges of the case's facts. The law will be explained for you and you will be instructed on the law's application to the facts by the judge. But you, and you alone, will determine what are the true facts.

After all the evidence is presented you will be asked to meet, without benefit of judge or lawyers, to reach a decision and to render a verdict. The judge, carefully and precisely, will outline the law that applies to those facts before you retire to the jury room.

The information presented for your aid is a guide to make your duties easier to understand. The judge, a learned and vastly experienced person in the mechanics of the law, will guide and apply the details pertaining to the particular case for which you are serving.

The judge will be explicit; this book is general.

Since the judge is experienced and learned in the ways of law, perhaps that raises in your mind the often-asked question: "Why doesn't a judge or panel of judges serve as a jury in every instance?"

While the judge or panel of judges sometimes do serve as the jury at the request of the parties, these words of the United States Supreme Court explain why a jury of laymen is often preferred:

"Twelve men to the average of the community, comprising men of learning and men whose learning consists only of what they have themselves seen and heard; the merchant; the mechanic; the farmer; the laborer; these sit together, consult, apply their separate experience of the affairs of life to the facts proven and draw a unanimous conclusion. This average judgment thus given it, is the great effort of the law to obtain. It is assumed that twelve men know more of the common affairs of life than does one man, that they can draw wiser and safer conclusions from admitted facts thus occurring, than can a single judge."

2. How You Were Selected

Generally, any Ohio voter is eligible for jury duty.

Selection of jurors is defined by the laws of the state and actual choice is performed under dictates of those laws by a special Jury Commission and the Clerk of Courts.

Choice of individuals is by lot or chance. This means that some may never be called upon to exercise the privilege of serving while others may be called two or more times.

Jurors are paid a nominal fee for their services. Although the financial returns are small compared with today's average wages, the duty and honor of serving should outweigh inconvenience for any loyal American.

The glow and satisfaction of knowing you have performed a vital civic duty plus the working knowledge you receive of an important phase of our governmental procedure will provide you with lasting benefits.

You will find most trials vastly interesting and the crisp function-

Do-It-Yourself Campaign Opens

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Kidd Brewer, Raleigh businessman running for lieutenant governor, opens his "quarters" today on the steps of the State Board of Education building, across from the state capitol here.

In a statement Sunday, Brewer said, "Everyone will be welcome to our open air headquarters. . . Since this is to be a 'do it yourself campaign' we will have to depend on the people of the state to do most of the work themselves in their own communities in order that when elected I will not be under obligation to any one person, group, or selfish interest. No contribution for more than $10 from any one person or source will be accepted."

ing of Ohio justice and the emotional panorama of judge, lawyers and witnesses will leave you with a gratifying knowledge that you have taken part in a real-life drama.

No good American shirks jury duty.

Experienced jurors realize, and you who are serving for the first time will soon learn to know that the judge, clerk, bailiff, lawyers and other court aides gladly will help you in any way their ability and court rules allow.

Stock Mart Gets Jittery As Industries Fluctuate

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Detroit takes a long weekend and stock exchanges around the land have the jitters.

Troubles in the auto industry, the farm implement business, parts of the textile industry and in agriculture haven't been news for some time. And booming business in other important industries balanced these weak spots off.

But the shock of a sudden shutdown in a number of auto factories at once jiggles that sensitive barometer, the stock market.

Stock traders, like most Americans have come to feel in recent years that peak auto production and good times are synonymous. They, like most of the citizenry, have been wondering how the general economy could stay so high when Detroit was having trouble selling cars.

Now, the auto-making holiday leads some to review the whole economy. But many think the current jitters are overdone, regarding what is happening in the auto industry as but another example of the rolling adjustments, one industry at a time, that have characterized the postwar years.

Detroit explains the drop in auto output at its low point for the year to date as aimed at giving the dealers time to pare record high stocks of unsold 1956 models before new ones arrive.

Another weak spot in the economy—the lower total of farm income—has spread into the industries that supply the farmer with machinery, appliances, fertilizers, or new cars for that matter. But some see signs that the worst of the farm income drop is over.

A third weak spot, home building, shows some signs of firming up with the approach of better weather.

The steel industry, pouring out metal for construction, for ships and freight cars, for bridges and highways, hasn't shown any signs yet of being hurt by the troubles of its prized customer, the auto makers. There's a rush on by steel's customers to get deliveries before July. The order books are full.

Card Game Ends In Fatal Shooting

CINCINNATI (AP)—Joe Richardson, 42, of Cincinnati was arrested yesterday at a fishing lake west of here in the shooting death of Willie Jackson, 26.

City and county police teamed up for the arrest. Investigators said Richardson told them the shooting was in self-defense after a card game argument Saturday.

Circus Elephant Topples In Street

NEW YORK (AP)—An ailing elephant named Emily toppled over dead on a Manhattan street Sunday night while hurrying to catch a circus train to Boston.

The 3,000-pound animal was one of 46 Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey elephants being led to the train. The circus closed Sunday night.

Emily Shander said she had been sick in recent weeks and was about 1,000 pounds underweight. She was 22 years old.

Full Discussion Of Poll Issues Due From GOP

President's Press Aide Says 'Electronic Age' To Help Eisenhower

WASHINGTON (AP)—The nation's voters will hear a full discussion of the issues this election year from the Republican side, Presidential Press Secretary James C. Hagerty promised yesterday.

Hagerty also indicated that the "electronic age" (presumably television and radio) would figure importantly in President Eisenhower's campaign.

It has been previously announced Eisenhower will make five or six TV campaign speeches, some possibly originating in other parts of the country.

"We have a lot of plans," Hagerty said, but "it's a little bit too early to announce those plans particularly to the opposition party."

Referring to Eisenhower, Hagerty said, "He will campaign, but I think it will be in a little different sense than a traditional whistle-stop campaign. I do think our points of view will be fully and amply covered."

THE PRESS secretary said he thought the principal issues in the GOP view will be prosperity and what he called a transition "from war toward peace."

Another opinion of what the issues would be came from Sen. Sparkman (D-Ala.), the 1952 Democratic vice presidential candidate.

Sparkman said Democrats won't need to emphasize health or the "parttime President" argument to beat Eisenhower in November.

"I think the two principal issues will be the farm problem and the favoritism of this administration for big business, with its consequent disadvantage to small business," he said.

Huge Backlog Of Unsold Autos Studied

DETROIT (AP)—Despite almost unprecedented April production cutbacks, new car inventories have continued to mount.

The monthly survey of Automotive News showed today that on May 1 dealers throughout the country had 902,270 new cars jammed in warehouses and storage lots or in transit from the factories. The total compares with an April 1 figure of 898,669 units and is only 1,519 units below the record total set March 1 this year.

The auto makers built fewer cars in April than in March (547,600 units compared with 575,500) in the effort to reduce stock.

Failure of the reduction to materialize, they now say, emphasizes that the sales sag has been more serious than most industry sources realized.

On May 1 a year ago dealer inventories stood at 763,041 cars. Factory production in the first four months of 1955 came to 2,879,000 cars. Factory output for the January-April period this year was cut to 2,291,000.

Hospital Patient Killed By Engine

COLUMBUS (AP)—A 44-year-old woman patient at Columbus State Hospital was struck and killed by a New York Central passenger train yesterday as she walked down the tracks.

Police identified her as Rhea W. Harris of Columbus. They quoted the engineer, Roscoe Mehaffie of Sharonville, as saying he blew the train whistle but the woman kept walking toward the train and "looked me right in the eye."

Acting Coroner Dr. Carl E. Tetrick said he probably will rule the death a suicide.

The plan is intended to eliminate the concentration of land-ownership in a few hands, which is inconsistent with the Constitution of the new republic, Chaudhri said. The maximum amount of land a man may own will be determined later.

Weekend Wind Storms Leave Toll Of 13 Dead

Cleveland Area Counts 6 Fatalities, Millions In Property Damage

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Weekend tornadoes and violent storms gouged destructive trails across parts of the nation, leaving 13 dead, at least 270 injured and millions of dollars property damage.

Disastrous windstorms in the Cleveland area killed six persons, injured at least 69 and caused property damage estimated at several million dollars.

Six others were killed and more than 200 injured by 20 separate tornadoes that roared down on Michigan. Damage in Flint alone was estimated by authorities at up to $2 million.

Northern Ohio reported one other storm death when a youth drowned in a flooded ditch.

Winds of up to 70 m.p.h., accompanied by heavy rainfall, hit Cleveland and its suburbs Saturday night. Police estimated damage in the suburb of Rocky River at $5 million.

MAYOR FRANK P. Celeste of the Cleveland suburb of Lakewood estimated damage there at more than $1½ million. Lakewood police said more than 600 trees were felled by the storm.

About 1,500 civil defense auxiliary police and their volunteers aided authorities in directing traffic in the Cleveland area and clearing the streets of debris.

In South Cleveland, a man and two children were killed when a tavern collapsed under buffeting by the strong winds. Two men touched a fallen power line and a youth was killed when a tree fell on his automobile.

A threatened overflow of the Flint River in Michigan forced about 100 residents of Flint from their homes. The river was reported to be receding, but the Weather Bureau said more rain will fall today.

Three twisters struck Flint almost simultaneously Saturday. Two hundred Flint homes and a score of business establishments were either leveled or badly damaged. Overcrowded Flint hospitals took care of 107 injured persons.

Pope Approves Transplants To Aid Blind
VATICAN CITY (AP)—Pope Pius XII today approved the transplant of corneas from the eyes of dead persons to those of the living blind.

The pontiff warned, however, that transplant cases should be carefully selected and prudence used. The 80-year-old head of the Roman Catholic Church spoke to a group of oculists who had asked for his opinion.

The pope's words were his first on cornea transplants since an Italian priest, Don Carlo Gnocchi, recently bequeathed his eyes to two blind Italian children just before he died.

"You assure me," said the pontiff, "that the transplant of the cornea is for many sick persons a means of cure or at least of improvement. That's good, use it and help them in the measure that is possible and legal, naturally selecting the cases with much care and prudence."

4 Lima Escapees Still At Large
LIMA (AP)—Four escaped inmates from Lima State Hospital were still at large today.

The four broke out of the institution early Saturday by sawing window bars on the second floor and towering themselves to the ground on an improvised rope.

Kentucky, Indiana and Michigan law enforcement agencies joined Ohio authorities in the search for the quartet, described by hospital officials as "unpredictable and possibly dangerous."

Defense Chief Warns Against Any Cut In U. S. Foreign Aid Program

Swim Lesson Plans Outlined By Red Cross

Pickaway County Chapter of the American Red Cross announced plans today for swimming instructions, to be handled by fully qualified personnel.

Anyone wishing to enroll children for the classes should call at the local chapter office, 114½ N. Court St., between the hours of 8:30 a. m. and 5 p. m. next Wednesday. It was emphasized that those who have already called the chapter office and left their names will still have to visit the office on Wednesday of this week.

Calls must be made in person, not by phone.

Due to a shortage of qualified instructors and volunteer help, the local chapter may not be able to handle all requests.

Dates for the swimming lessons have not as yet been set, but they will probably be scattered through June, July and August, depending upon the number of instructors available.

Anyone, 18 or over, holding a senior life-saving certificate is eligible to take the instructor's training course. Anyone thus qualified is asked to contact the Red Cross office here.

James Byrnes Urges Curb On High Court

WASHINGTON (AP)—James F. Byrnes, a former associate justice of the Supreme Court, said today the court "must be curbed."

"Power intoxicates men," Byrnes said. "It is never voluntarily surrendered. It must be taken from them. The Supreme Court must be curbed."

Byrnes, a member of the high court in 1941-42, also is a former member of the Senate and of the House and the holder of various high offices in the Franklin D. Roosevelt and Truman Administrations, including the secretaryship of state in the latter. His most recent public office was as governor of South Carolina.

Byrnes assailed as a "usurpation of power" the Supreme Court's decision outlawing racial segregation in the public schools and hinted that the decision may not have been unanimous, as was announced at the time it was handed down two years ago this week.

British Chief Faces Grilling About Mysterious Frogman
LONDON (AP)—Prime Minister Eden mapped government strategy for tonight's showdown Parliament session on his handling of the strange case of the missing British frogman and the Soviet warships.

Eden was headed for a sharp grilling in the House of Commons debate.

Angry leaders of the Labor opposition want to know just what retired naval diver Lionel Crabb, a World War II hero, was doing in the icy waters of Portsmouth Harbor near the Russian warships that brought Premier Bulganin and party chief Nikita Khrushchev to Britain.

When the question first came up in Commons last week, Eden said Crabb was operating "without authorization" and that it would not be in the nation's best interests to say more.

The Russians insist the diver was spying. The British press generally has agreed.

Eden said the retired naval officer was "testing underwater apparatus" and refused to go into details. In the debate tonight, Laborite legislators hoped to force Eden into supplying the details.

Crabb was seen swimming near the Soviet cruiser Ordzhonikidze and two accompanying vessels April 19, the day after "B and K" arrived in Britain.

He has not been seen since. The Admiralty said he was "presumed dead," but didn't explain why that was presumed.

Gleanings of information here and there have built up this puzzling account of the events that led up to Crabb's disappearance. The diver and a "Mr. Smith" arrived at the port of Portsmouth April 17 and checked in at the Sallport Hotel.

From the hotel Crabb wrote his aged mother that he was "going on a job, but it's a simple mission." He told her not to worry and that he'd be back in about two days.

The following day the Soviet ships pulled into port. On April 20 the Soviet commander, Rear Adm. V. F. Kotov, questioned British Rear Adm. P. W. Burnett about a mysterious frogman Soviet sailors had spotted surfacing near the visiting ships. Burnett said he knew nothing about it.

A day later a British police official removed four pages from the Sallport Hotel register, including the registration of Crabb and Smith.

The British Admiralty announced April 29 that Crabb had presumably died nine days earlier. It gave no details and no death certificate was issued.

The British say they "deeply regret" the whole affair and obviously hope the Kremlin will let it drop.

Search Continues For Drowned Man

Big Darby Creek Being 'Dragged' For Body Of Circleville Resident

Sheriff's deputies from Pickaway and Ross counties continued their search today for the body of a 44-year old Circleville man believed to have drowned in Big Darby Creek last Saturday.

John Stanley Hickey was last seen wading in the creek at Dewey Park, approximately six miles northwest of here off Route 104. His companion, 39-year old Mable Merritt of 1061 Linwood Ave., reportedly was with him at the time and sounded the alarm.

Deputy Sheriff Walter Richards received the call and sped to the scene with Allen Trego and Don Jenkins, local residents, accompanying him. Deputy Richards notified the Circleville Fire Department and the inhalator truck with its oxygen equipment was also sent to the scene.

A net has been stretched across the creek to snare Hickey's body if it should be carried towards the Scioto River, provided it has not already passed that point. Two small boats were maneuvering today in the swiftly moving creek in "dragging" operations.

HICKEY AND Miss Merritt had gone to the park after picnicking with another couple and following at least two "drinking" stops, according to a report from the sheriff's department here. Miss Merritt reportedly revealed to a deputy in a signed statement that the two had spent nearly two hours in a S. Court St. tavern drinking.

In the statement, Miss Merritt allegedly reported that Hickey led her out into the swollen creek by the hand and told her "this is it." She said she had to "kick loose" before she could make her way back to the embankment, while Hickey disappeared.

Deputy Richards said he found Miss Merritt to be "quite intoxicated." He added that he found $492 in a wallet belonging to Hickey, plus about $19 in Miss Merritt's purse. The couple had apparently partially disrobed on the embankment near where Hickey reportedly drowned, the Deputy added.

The sheriff's department said the unferocious in Big Darby Creek was very swift, and added that Hickey's body may have lodged against pilings. One deputy remarked that the small boat he had been in nearly upset during the "dragging."

Hickey, described as an employee of a local feed mill, became a widower a few months ago when his wife died. There are several children.

Air Force Analyst Returned To Job
WASHINGTON (AP)—A new Air Force job today awaited Sidney Hatkin as the result of a 14-month fight to clear himself of security charges.

Hatkin also will receive more than $6,000 in back pay under Secretary of the Air Force Quarles' decision Saturday that it would be in the national interest to assign him as a statistical analyst in a nonsensitive position.

Hatkin welcomed his reinstatement as "like coming back from the living dead."

Hatkin, 40, father of two children, was suspended Feb. 28, 1955. Since then he has been awaiting the outcome of security charges that he had belonged to alleged Communist front organizations.

INNERTUBE BEFORE INVENTION OF THE WHEEL
I would like to suggest here and now that the Auto Industry start putting square wheels on all 1957 cars. This sounds like a revolutionary idea, and it is. Square wheels would cut the traffic accident rate down to nothing overnight. Why? Because with square wheels no one would be able to drive over 2 miles per hour. If they tried to step on the gas and speed along at maybe 4 miles an hour the square wheels would knock the car apart or shake their bridgework loose. We could also put square wheels on baby Buggies so children won't grow up feeling overprotected and square bies (to slow down the game.) Say, there's no limit to the possibilities of this idea.

Police, Officers, Bonding Firm Face Law Suit

Two Circleville policemen and two former members of the department are defendants along with the National Surety Company of New York, their bonding firm, in a civil action in Common Pleas Court here.

A jury of eight women and four men was seated this morning to hear the case brought by Maynard Keaton of Circleville. Keaton is asking $4,000 to compensate for damages he allegedly suffered when "forcibly" brought to the police station during the 1933 Pumpkin Show.

Almost exactly a year ago — in May of 1933—Keaton was fined $10 and costs for resisting arrest and $10 and costs for intoxication as a result of the same incident. A charge of disturbing the peace was dismissed in municipal court, where the trial was held.

The officers accused of beating Keaton include: John Lockard, a special policeman; Russell Ogan, a regular officer; Ludwell Mills, now a plant protection officer for a Columbus firm; and Alva (Pappy) Shastene, who has since retired from the force.

KEATON ALLEGES that the officers beat him while he was being held in the police station. His attorneys are Gale King and George Gross, both of Columbus.

George Young and Joseph Adkins, both local attorneys, are defending the policemen and the bonding firm.

5 Ohioans Die In Pennsy Highway Crash

NEW CASTLE, Pa. (AP)—Five members of an Ohio family and members of an Ohio family and two New Castle men were killed last night in a head-on auto crash.

Three of the five children who survived were reported in critical condition today.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Markwell, of Niles, Ohio, were returning to their home with their eight children after a Mother's Day visit with Mrs. Markwell's mother, Mrs. Clara Collidge of Tarentum.

Markwell, a 38-year-old steelworker, was killed instantly. So was his 33-year-old wife, Dorothy, who was expecting a ninth child in two weeks.

The Markwell children killed were Mary, 15; Ruthanne, 12 and William, 8.

The other Markwell children and their injuries: Susan, 2, both hips broken; Tommy, 3, severe forehead laceration; Robert, 6, broken left hip; Dorothy, 13, possible skull fracture and both hips broken; Cecilia, 7, deep shock.

State police said Allen M. Fitzpatrick, 30, driver of the auto which collided with the Markwell car, died instantly. His lone passenger, 30-year-old Roscoe Williams, died three hours after the crash on Route 422 about 10 miles west of New Castle.

State police said the autos "practically disintegrated on impact. Both cars apparently pulled out into the center lane of the highway at the same time to make passes. They met with such terrific impact that Fitzpatrick's car flew right up into the air. It landed on top of the car it was passing. The car was damaged but its driver wasn't hurt."

Red Concentration Camps To Close, Police Aide Says

MOSCOW (AP)—A high secret police official says the Soviet Union will abolish its concentration camps within the next 18 months.

He told a group of visiting French Socialists the change would leave only ordinary prisons and "corrective labor colonies" for errant Russians.

The official, whose name could not be disclosed, gave the French Socialists a rundown of Soviet penal plans during their visit to the Tula corrective labor camp 80 miles south of Moscow. It holds nonpolitical prisoners such as thieves and murderers.

He said the corrective labor camps would contain factories where the convicts would work. They could not be sent to outside projects as is done in the concentration camps, he explained.

Already, the official said, deportation of Soviet citizens to distant sections is forbidden, except for those convicted of serious political crimes. And deportation even in those cases, he said, can come only after normal court trial.

Lumber Schooner Slashed In Half

MONTREY, Calif. (AP)—A 10,000 ton freighter cut a lumber schooner in two off the central California Coast in pre-dawn darkness today, killing three men.

Two others were missing and of the 23 survivors, one man was listed as "in bad shape."

The Coast Guard said its radio messages indicated the Marine Leopard rammed and slashed through the Howard Olson.

Three hours after the collision only the bow section of the schooner remained afloat.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sidney Hatkin was lucky. Left hanging in midair by the government — jobless and under a cloud — he found someone to fight his case in public. Then he got his job back.

It's doubtful he would have been reinstated if he hadn't asked the help of former Sen. Harry P. Cain and if Cain hadn't made his case public.

Hatkin's case points up what appear to be unnecessary delay and carelessness for individuals by the government in clearing and reinstating — or firing — government employees suspended as security risks.

Hatkin, 40, married and with children, was suspended as a security risk in February 1955 by the Air Force where he worked as he was given a three-day hearing by a security board.

It took the Air Force from then until Saturday to decide whether it was safe to let Hatkin return to work. It did so only after Cain, Washington Republican and member of the government's Subversive Activities Control Board (SACB), made a speech about Hatkin's troubles.

Except for a few weeks, Hatkin could not get a job during the 14 months of his suspension. He hadn't been fired as a security risk but he hadn't been cleared, either. He was in a state of suspension.

On Saturday Secretary of the Air Force Quarles announced he had offered Hatkin a job with the Air Force doing non-sensitive work — not near secrets. Hatkin hopes for full clearance later.

Why did it take a year after the board heard the charges against him for action in his case? The Air Force, through a Pentagon public relations man, says it takes time to handle these cases. In a speech in New York a week ago Saturday, Cain talked of Hatkin's case without mentioning his name. Hatkin's identity was soon learned.

Cain, one of the most severe critics of President Eisenhower's program for getting security risks out of the government, cited Hatkin as an example of what he said happens to hundreds of suspended employees.

He said he knows of 416 government employees who were suspended as risks, and later reinstated, but only after some of them had waited an average of eight to nine months for a final verdict.

It is doubtful Hatkin would have been reinstated without Cain's open statement of his case. Last February a Russian employed in the Soviet Embassy contacted Hatkin after the latter had put an advertisement in a newspaper, seeking a job. The Russian asked him to gather information about the aircraft industry.

Hatkin notified the FBI at that time but two weeks ago — a week before Cain made his speech — the Air Force notified Hatkin it had tentatively decided to fire him as a security risk.

Ohio GI, 17, Only Half An Escapee

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A prisoner at the Ft. Hayes guardhouse here tried to escape Sunday, but only half of him made it.

An Army spokesman said Martin Youngless, 17, Brighton Ohio, tried to squeeze through the pried-apart bars of a guardhouse window. Only his head and shoulders got through and he had to be helped back in.

A fellow prisoner, Albert D. Saltsman, 17, Leavittsburg, Ohio, managed to squeeze through the window ahead of Youngless. Columbus police picked him up an hour later.

FARM NEWS and VIEWS

By R. S. SWENSON, County Agent

Reapportionment:

Pickaway County residents will be vitally concerned about the proposed reapportionment of the House of Representatives in the state legislature.

I had a communication recently from one of our county residents who asked that I discuss the reapportionment in this column.

My position, of course, is one of purely and simply reporting the possibilities in a move of this kind.

At the present time the membership in the House of Representatives is based upon a combination of area and population representation. Each county has at least one member in the House of Representatives.

If the House were reapportioned as proposed Pickaway County would be grouped with several other counties in their membership in the legislature. The metropolitan counties would have several more representatives than they have at the present time. The Ohio Senate is apportioned on the basis of population. This is directly opposite to the system in the United States Congress where the Senate is apportioned on the basis of area only and the House of Representatives is apportioned on the basis of population.

Scholarships:

Each year Chester S. Hutchison, assistant dean of the college of agriculture, releases a list of scholarships available to freshman entering Ohio State University.

Sheriff's deputies thought its three occupants had drowned and talked of dragging the lake.

Sunday the sheriff's office said the three had been located safe and dry. What happened?

Well, they sheepishly explained to deputies, they saw a place that looked nice so they brought the boat into shore and got out. But they forgot to turn the motor off. The three were not identified.

Pickaway County high school seniors who are interested in going to college and would like more information concerning the scholarships are asked to contact our office. It is located in the basement of the Post Office Building in Circleville.

Some Garden Facts:

Did you know that:

1. Lime is seldom if ever necessary on lawns. Grass grows as well without it.

2. Lime has no effect in the control of insects and diseases in the garden.

3. Lawn clippings should be left on the lawn to provide organic matter. If clippings are removed a yearly application of peat moss is necessary.

4. Chemical fertilizers are the most economical for the home gardener.

5. It is not harmful to water the lawn or garden while the sun is shining. The most important thing when watering is to thoroughly soak the first 4 to 6 inches of soil.

6. Moles do not eat bulbs. They are carnivorous. The mice that use the moles run eat bulbs.

Pasture:

The pasture season is just around the corner. As a matter of fact, we are 2 to 3 weeks late in pasture growth, however, by using good sound practices a high tonnage can be realized from an acre of pasture. The most efficient way of utilizing pasture is to use a system of rotation grazing when possible.

Farmers are advised to plan a complete pasture program for the entire season. Permanent pasture becomes very short and poor in August and in some cases a supplemental summer pasture must be provided.

Sudan grass, properly handled, will do a good job of providing the summer pasture. We have information concerning the management of Sudan grass for interested farm-

RUBBER DISCOVERY

A NEW scientific discovery by American industry has individuals from the Pentagon to Soviet Russia sitting on the edges of their seats. This time it is "natural" rubber, produced synthetically.

Since the turn of the twentieth century, when rubber prices began climbing, U. S. scientists have been trying to produce a synthetic product having the same composition and properties as natural rubber. The closest they have been able to come to it was the production of general purpose GR-S and similar synthetic types during World War II.

These World War II synthetics do not have the same composition as natural rubber and, while greatly improved since their introduction, do not perform as satisfactorily as natural rubber in certain products. It is interesting to note, however, that synthetic rubber now accounts for 61 per cent of the total new rubber consumed in the United States.

This nation, of course, is dependent 100 per cent for its natural rubber supply on such far-away and restless countries as Ceylon, Liberia and Malaya. In case of war these sources could be cut off, as they were during World War II. It was only the inventive genius of civilian scientists then that kept the U. S. Armies rolling.

Although no great urgency to produce natural rubber remains, any successful attempt upon the part of scientists to produce a natural product synthetically is worthy of commendation. Furthermore, the discoverers of the new process, Goodrich-Gulf Chemicals, Inc., expect the price of the laboratory product eventually to be far less than that of the imported variety.

MORE AAU NONSENSE

HOW RIDICULOUS can the Amateur Athletic Union make itself appear?

This is a pertinent question as AAU officials persist in their persecution of Wes Santee, the great Kansas miler who was barred from amateur competition because he took his "pay" a little more openly than some.

The latest episode has the AAU declaring ineligible for AAU competition the entire track team of William and Mary College. This because two members ran against Santee in a meet in which Santee represented the Quantic Marines.

The whole idea of "amateur" versus "professional" is so silly that one wonders how straight-faced men can accept it. Those who call the AAU officials a bunch of hypocrites are right.

All of this may seem of less than earth-shaking importance. But as long as athletes continue the farce of pretending to be amateurs and yet accepting pay on the side what must the youth of this nation think? This is a strange way to teach sportsmanship.

It seems about time that the whole matter of amateur and professional athletics be reexamined and put on a realistic basis.

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

Whereas to the professors, politics is the science of government, to the politicians politics is the art of getting on in public affairs. It is all a matter of viewpoint and while the professors would recognize those aspects of government that do not appear to be perfect, the politician knows that in a free society most of the people want to be left alone to their own devices and are willing to pay for it, if the tax is not too high.

The professional politician often prefers to let amateurs, or rather unprofessionals, take the lead in an election year because it looks better. The professional figures that in the end he will manipulate the situation so that he has what he needs which is not the power to articulate philosophies of government and principles of statecraft, but patronage.

For it is patronage which keeps a party together and while many denounce it, all professionals practise it. And somehow, it does not take an outsider long to understand that even if he got a public position by accident, if he wants re-election, he must keep his organization together and that means patronage. This is what Governor Allan Shivers may have learned as a result of his contest for power with Lyndon Johnson in Texas. Party loyalty, in that election, paid off.

In such a contest as now is taking place in the Democratic Party, it needs to be noted that Stevenson and Harriman are not regarded as professionals, whereas Ke-fauver and Lyndon Johnson are. To the active manipulator of political votes either in Conventions or in Congress, it is not so very important who gets the nomination for President, so long as he is a good guy who understands political organization and sees to it that the patronage in each state goes to the right man. Party loyalty is demanded of unprofessionals and mugwumps are usually disliked.

During the first year of the Eisenhower Administration, patronage was being used to kill off the Taft forces in each state. Taft died and time healed old wounds and a number of Taft followers were given good positions in the Government, some even close to President Eisenhower.

In New York State, however, all patronage continued to go to Thomas E. Dewey who is one of the most skillful professional politicians in the country, but could not do for himself what he did for Eisenhower, get into the White House. Whereas the Taft people can get along with most of the Eisenhower people, and realistically have to, none of them want to get along with Dewey in any political enterprise upon which he may engage.

This creates a bit of a situation when it is rumored that it has become impractical for the Republicans to nominate Jacob K. Javits for the United States Senatorship to run against the aged Herbert Lehman who will be renominated by the Democrats. Therefore, it is being suggested that Tom Dewey run for U. S. Senator with the blessing of the Eisenhower Administration.

In the old days, when Dewey was Governor of the State of New York, it was necessary for every practical Republican politician to cater to his ego, to bow before his shrine in order to get state patronage. Now that Averell Harriman is Governor, the state patronage goes to the Democrats anyhow, so why should a Republican worry about Dewey?

Choosing The Right Frames For Glasses

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

ARE you wearing the right glasses?

The lens prescription may be all right, but what about the frames?

While this may be going a little far afield in a health column, I'm going to give you some advice about selecting frames which will suit you best, for appearance as well as from a medical standpoint. For there still are some who feel embarrassment at wearing spectacles.

For Glamour

Actually, glasses can glamorize your face. The Better Vision Institute has set up a few basic rules for selecting the right pair.

If your nose is long, you'll want a frame with a low nose-bridge. This will make your nose appear shorter. Conversely, a high bridge will lengthen a snub nose.

For eyes that are too close together, try frames with ornamentation at the outer corners. Very small lenses not only cut your field of vision, but they also make your eyes appear little and close-set.

Pinched Look

Unless the frames are at least as wide as your face at the cheekbones, they are apt to give it a pinched look. If you have a small face with delicate features, slender, comparatively inconspicuous frames probably will be more becoming.

Large specs, however, help balance a full, round face with prominent features.

For this full, round face, angular shaped frames will look better than round ones. Most men, incidentally, prefer angular designs because they are considered more masculine.

Color of Frames

Remember that the color of the frames should harmonize with your eyes, hair and complexion.

A blonde with light eyes, for example, looks attractive in deep blue, blue green, gold or dark tortoise shell.

A blonde with brown or black eyes can wear medium green, coral, Chinese red, gold and light amber tones or tortoise shell to good advantage.

A brunette with light eyes probably should choose deep blue, blue green, silver, white gold or light pink tortoise shell.

Dark Eyes

A brown or black-eyed brunette generally looks better in deep yellow, tomato red, gold, green and light or flesh-colored tortoise shell.

Redheads can select any shade of green, coral, cocoa, gold or dark to medium tones of tortoise shell. I think you'll feel a lot better knowing that your glasses improve your appearance.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

P. Y.: Will the daily use of a sun lamp be harmful?

Answer: It is doubtful that any harm can occur from short daily exposure to an ultra-violet lamp or sun lamp. However, excessive exposure to the lamp can cause chronic skin disorders.

CHAPTER 21

VAL TRIED the communicating bathroom door, but that too was locked. Still feeling worried, she went slowly up the stairs to the main deck where they were dancing. Dirk was waiting for her and she told him about being unable to get into Mrs. Featherstone's cabin.

"For heaven's sake, Val, don't look so concerned about it," he said, laughing. "Aunt May is very partial to a drop of champagne."

"But is it good for her? What does Doctor Mangin say?"

"He goes on the principle that anything that will cheer her up is good for her, and there's a lot to be said for that theory. She wouldn't let you in because she didn't want you to find her tipping. Come on, Val, smile, be gay. Let's dance. This is a gala night."

Dirk's explanation of Mrs. Featherstone's behavior sounded reasonable, but she reminded herself that the physical welfare of the older woman was her responsibility—and Bruce's. Bruce had insisted that the health of everyone on this ship was his sole responsibility. But surely there was no need to run to a ship's doctor before your patient was over-indulging herself by drinking champagne?

But she would mention it to Bruce, if he asked her to dance. If he asked her to dance... She found herself glancing about the floor for him.

"Haven't you heard you should concentrate on your dancing?" Dirk reproved her smilingly.

"I've told you I wasn't a good dancer. Why do you dance with me?" Her voice was suddenly ragged.

"It wouldn't occur to you that whether you're a good dancer or not, I would like to hold you in my arms even in this conventional way?"

She looked quickly toward him, but he wasn't laughing at her. Her sense of embarrassment increased. She tried to make a joke of it.

"You do say the nicest things,"

Dirk, I wish I could believe you meant them."

"Oddly I meant that," he said.

She knew now that he was serious, but she didn't want any further emotional complications on her hands. She liked Dirk very much, but she wanted him as a friend.

"I suppose everyone means everything they say on carnival night," she said, and laughed forcibly.

"You knew I meant that, Val, but you don't want to believe it. Haven't you had any clue to my feelings for you? Maybe I don't understand women so well, but remember I was brought up in a man's household. Up to now I've felt more at home with older women. I suppose psychologists would say that subconsciously I was seeking my mother in them." He gave a faint smile. "It isn't always easy to understand your own reactions, is it?"

"No," she agreed.

"But," his voice became firmer. "I know I'm looking for something entirely different."

She could no longer, even pretended not to understand what he meant. "I wish you wouldn't say things like that, Dirk. Not now. Please continue to be my friend."

She spoke in a low voice and looked up at him pleadingly.

"My dear, I'm sorry. His voice too was low. "I won't worry you again. Not tonight anyway. I only thought it might help."

The music stopped and two of the other passengers, a young honeymoon couple, came over to talk to them. Val was thankful for the interruption. What Dirk had said had only added to her emotional confusion. Bruce had made no attempt to come near her, although during this interval he was standing quite near them, talking to a willowy young blonde.

Suddenly, unreasonably, she found herself hating the blonde girl. She had seen Bruce talking on deck to the same girl several times previously and they had been leaning close together by the railing this afternoon as she passed by. They were laughing together now.

She longed to move abruptly away from them, but almost as though Dirk had read her mind again, he suggested they all go into the lounge and split a bottle of champagne.

Val scarcely ever drank, and that may have been the reason why the one glass of champagne went slightly to her head. The young man asked her to dance and Dirk partnered his wife, but as soon as they reached the dance floor the pursuer, who was acting as master of ceremonies, announced that this dance would be a Paul Jones.

"Oh blast it, you'll be swept away from me in a moment," the young man commented, smiling sourly.

A few minutes after they'd begun dancing the pursuer blew his whistle, they formed two circles in the usual way and presently changed partners. The second time the whistle blew Val found herself almost directly facing Bruce. By all the rules of the dance he should have claimed her as his partner. But instead, he stepped lightly to one side and grabbed a vivacious buxom woman most unsuitably dressed as a little girl. Some other man claimed Val, but she didn't know who it was, nor care. Her feeling of bewildered hurt had changed to a sharp sense of anger. How dare he treat her like that?

The pursuer, who prided himself on his ingenuity even when it came to running a Paul Jones, provided her with an excuse. This time when he blew the whistle he called, "Ladies on one side of the floor, gentlemen to the other." And when they had arranged themselves, he blew his whistle again and called, "Ladies, choose your partners!"

There was a slight pause and a titter from the women; then as the band struck up again, they started across the floor in some embarrassment, but Val literally flew. She had to get to Bruce before any of the other women.

Why Do I Love You, Mom?

--By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—An open letter to Mrs. P. E. Boyle, a lady parent in Kansas City, Mo.

Dear Mama:

You are one of the world's hardest gals to please on Mother's Day.

The ordinary presents are no good at all. You don't want jewelry. If your children buy you flowers or candy, you say, "It's just a waste of money." They can't give you money with any sense of satisfaction because they know you won't spend it on yourself. You'll just put it away in an old sock for your grandchildren.

"Oh, don't give me anything—Mother's Day is just a bunch of nonsense," you say. Your happiest Mother's Days have been the ones on which you spent five hours turning your face cherry red over a cookstove fixing a family feast—in the years when the whole family could be there to enjoy it.

What could one who was away do to please you except to call you long distance and tell you he missed you and wished he was home? It is hard to give anything to a woman who has spent her life giving to others.

The only thing I have to offer you is the one thing you have never asked for—appreciation. And so today, I'd like to send you a valentine on the day after Mother's Day, the first and probably (sons being what they are) the only love letter of my life to you.

Why do I love you? Let me count the reasons—just a few:

I love you because you are my mother, not only of my body but of my spirit's hunger.

I love you because, when your five young children were tearing the house apart, you would melt around placidly. "Now, if I just hadn't married and had you children, I could have got a nice quiet job as a nurse. That's what I really wanted to be." That's what you were, too.

I love you because when I deserved and needed a switching I got it—not later, but right then when I knew I had done wrong, felt guilty, and recognized I should be punished.

I love you because you never let tomorrow's sun rise on yesterday's anger.

I love you because, when I had a bad case of puppy love shortly after kindergarten, you never thought it was something to joke about.

I love you because you played no favorites among your children. Your only favorite child (this is still true) was the one that most needed your understanding help at the time.

I love you because, although your whole life has been spent in the shelter of your home, you could always meet a stranger and tell in 10 minutes whether he was a phony or a good human being.

I love you because when the cat had too many kittens you couldn't bear to have them drowned. (With five kids yourself you could understand the mother cat.)

I love you because, although you had only a third grade education, you never ceased reading and learning and widening the horizon of your own mind. And from your mind my mind caught fire.

I love you because you always watered and fed my adolescent dreams and, no matter how high they blazed, how silly they seemed to others, you never turned the damper down.

I love you because you have never been able to finish telling a funny story. You get so tickled you start laughing, and you laugh so hard everybody else begins to laugh—and then you forget how the story ends. But everybody's had a good time.

I love you because when quarrels arose, as they do in every large family, you never took sides, but quietly used the weight of your love in a way to bring back balance and harmony.

I love you because, when dad died nearly 19 years ago, you refused to turn into a self-pitying widow. Time has mellowed you. It cannot shrivel or defeat you.

I love you because, now that your children have grown, you refuse to try to run their lives. You merely say mildly, "Learn to sit loosely in the saddle of life."

I love you because, although you and I have always felt free to talk to each other about anything, from the Whims of God to the frailties of man, I feel I really know less about you than almost anyone I know at all. You have always held a mystery to me, and you always will. The more you love people, the more you realize there is a part of them you cannot ever know.

Finally, I love you because I know that when you read this you will be embarrassed and say, "Now, why did he have to do that? Can't he think of something more important to write about than that?"

Well, not today, mom.

Respectfully,
Your loving son,
Harold

"Mary Haworth's Mail"

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My husband was an only child and has a very possessive nature. We have been married 17 years and he gets worse instead of better. He doesn't just own his house, car, boats, fishing gear, cameras, etc., but he possesses me along with them. He has to know what I am doing or thinking, day and night. I haven't a shred of privacy, of mind, soul or body.

He wants no one around but us. Guests are tolerated occasionally, if they leave early and he can be in bed by 10 p. m. He takes me along on hunting and fishing trips and to his college reunions — the only wife — and I am perfectly miserable. When he goes to the barber, takes the car to be washed, drives someone to the station, I must go too. I think he would take me to work with him if he could.

If I am in the kitchen, so is he. If I loiter in the bath, he's there to ask why. Recently I left him in the garden talking to a neighbor, and went in to get lunch. He soon came after me storming that I'd left him stranded with a bore.

If I shampoo my hair or do my nails when he's home, he objects. When he's at leisure he wants my undivided attention.

Can you help me understand what makes him tick—before my nerves explode?

V. Y. DEAR V. Y.: You are more of a chameleon than an adult of integrity, in dealing with your husband's infantile demandingness. Thus in effect you conspire with him, to perpetuate the Siamese twin act you detest.

You put up with his parasitism, in a mood of expediency, while feeling martyred about it—and it might be a step towards emotional health, to ask yourself why you make this craven accommodation to a senseless type of tyranny. Also, you might help him get on the beam of "right reason," if you were to question him, intelligently, about the motivation of his obsessive claims to your time.

At the start of the marriage, it probably satisfied some deeply neurotic needs of yours, to have him so phobically intent upon sharing your every breath. Perhaps you were chronically disturbed by "insecurity" feelings, carried over from the past; hence encouraged his clinging, as a sort of insurance that you'd never be without "love" again.

You are two of a kind, with a neurotic affinity for each other, it seems; and, whereas you feel preyed upon, in coping with his needfulness, he probably fancies he's "protecting" you. Reading psychiatric textbooks won't bring insight. You need first hand specialist help, to grasp the implications of your own excessive dependency attitudes—which tangle with his and breed mutual resentments.

Ohio Hog Prices Show Increase

COLUMBUS (AP)—Prices received by farmers for live hogs at 85 central and western Ohio markets last week ranged from $15.25 to $16.25 on average No. 2 good butcher hogs, the Ohio Department of Agriculture reports.

The top of $16.25 was reached Friday on No. 2 hogs, the highest price paid since Sept. 20, 1955. The average for the week was $15.75 or 75 cents higher than last week's average. Graded No. 1 meat type hogs started at $15.75 Monday and closed at $16.75 Friday on a steady tone.

Sow prices also showed a gradual price increase during the five-day trading period. Choice light-weight sows weighing under 350 pounds sold generally from $13.25 to $14 during the week.

Bicycle, Child Sink In Canal

GOEZIN, France (AP)—Roger Second, a fisherman, was riding his bicycle along a canal with his daughter, Monique, 4, fastened securely to the carrier behind him.

A bargeman using a long boat hook pulled up the bicycle with Monique still attached. Firemen revived her.

Jewish Group Urges Firm Stand By U.S.

CLEVELAND (AP)—The American Jewish Committee says the United States should warn potential aggressors in the Middle East that its power "will be aligned against them."

The opinion was expressed in a resolution approved Sunday at the final session of the committee's three-day national executive board meeting. It said that "once adequate defensive arms have been obtained by Israel, serious consideration should be given to the limitation of further military supplies in the area."

The AJC affirmed its support of Secretary of State Dulles' proposals last August for settlement of the Middle East problem. It asserted, however, that Dulles' long-range objectives "will not be accomplished until the pall of fear is removed and the basic conditions of peace established."

"These include," the committee added, "no change of the status quo by either side through the force of arms, cessation of any and every aggressive act on the part of any nation, withdrawal of all blockades and economic boycotts and elimination of hate propaganda."

In other resolutions, the AJC said: 1. No credence can be given to assurances of Communist leaders that they have renounced oppressive policies against minorities, including Jews, until they have freed the victims of anti-Semitic purges from prisons, retracted anti-Semitic charges made at former purge trials and restored religious and cultural freedom to the Jews.

2. The government of West Germany should take immediate action against "an upsurge of anti-democratic and anti-Semitic literature" in the country.

New Stars Seen Appearing In Ohio Political Firmament

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P)—Primary elections put several new stars in Ohio's political firmament.

Returns reminded the "old pros", lest they forget, that "youngsters" are quick to master complex rules of a high stakes game and make tough competitors.

Two promising newcomers to the state scene, from their showing in Tuesday's voting, are Charles P. Wylie, 35, Columbus city attorney, and William Cody Kelly, 34, Cincinnati councilman. Wylie, for four years an assistant Ohio attorney general, showed surprising strength in his first bid for elective state office.

Politicians credited him with taking enough Cuyahoga County votes from Harry T. Marshall, 55, Cleveland councilman for 20 years, to let William Saxbe, 39, v. the Republican nomination for attorney general.

Saxbe, Mechanicsburg attorney and former Ohio House speaker, emerged from a four-man race with a margin of barely 3,000 votes. He was better known than Wylie because of an unsuccessful attempt to beat Sen. George H. Bender, 59, former state senator and seven-term congressman, for the Republican U.S. senatorial nomination two years ago. Bender went on to win election by barely 3,000 votes after a recount. He was unopposed for renomination this year.

Wylie came with 6,000 votes of equaling Marshall's 30,000 total in populous Cuyahoga County last Tuesday. Saxbe got 15,000 votes in the county. Unofficial statewide totals gave Saxbe 160,174, Marshall 157,004 and Wylie 125,686. Kelly, serving his second term as councilman, was runnerup to Paul M. Herbert, 61-year-old political veteran, in a three-way race for the GOP lieutenant governor nomination.

But Herbert still had too much on the ball for Kelly who was honored in 1954 as "man of the year" by the Cincinnati Junior Chamber of Commerce and one of five outstanding young men in Ohio by the Ohio State Jaycees. Herbert boasts a record of four terms in the Legislature and was as lieutenant governor. He was unsuccessful in a bid for governor in 1944. Recently Herbert made headlines by directing the State Supreme Court appeal of Dr. Samuel H. Sheppard, suburban Cleveland osteopath, from his wife-murder conviction.

Third contestant with a creditable showing in the lieutenant governor race was Tennyson Guyer, 41, Findlay tire company official and lecturer who formerly served as Celina mayor and councilman.

Outstanding example of youthful success was 40-year-old Atty. Gen. C. William O'Neill. He displayed championship style in outdistancing Lt. Gov. John W. Brown, 42, former Medina mayor, for the GOP gubernatorial nomination.

O'Neill actually is a political veteran despite his youth. He served six terms as state representative, one of them as House speaker and one as majority floor leader, before winning three terms as attorney general.

O'Neill's Nov. 6 election opponent will be Michael V. DiSalle, another veteran at 48. The former Toledo mayor and federal price controller made two unsuccessful bids for the U.S. Senate, the last in 1952 against GOP Sen. John W. Bricker.

DiSalle won the gubernatorial nomination by beating Cleveland Municipal Judge John E. Sweetney, 58, former secretary of state, and three younger newcomers. They were Robert W. Reider, 39, Port Clinton publisher and former state representative; 42-year-old Mayor Frank X. Kryzan of Youngstown and Oscar L. Fleckner, 46, Columbus shoe company official and former state liquor director.

Former Congressman Stephen M. Young of Cleveland at 67 gave 40-year-old Paul M. Ward of Columbus a political lesson. Young ran away with a four-man race for the Democratic nomination for attorney general. Ward, the party nominee in 1952 and 1954, was a distant second.

Mayor R. Edward Tepe of Norwood was runner-up in the Democratic lieutenant governor race to John Taylor, 37, Salem printer and former state senator. Tepe, is 45 years old.

The Democratic sprint for state treasurer demonstrated the advantage of a good vote-getting name. John Brown, 33-year-old Willoughby car salesman, sent the campaign season in Florida but got 166,399 votes. Winner of the nomination was John W. Donahy, 31, Hudson, with 241,026 votes.

Donahy carries a better known Democrat name. He is the second of six living sons of the late governor and U.S. Sen. A. V. (Vic) Donahy.

Riding a vote-getting tide was State Auditor James A. Rhodes, 46, who gained Republican renomination unopposed with 509,368 votes. The former Columbus mayor tried unsuccessfully two years ago to block Democrat Gov. Frank J. Lausche's bid for a fifth term.

Lausche, 60, who won two more terms as governor than any other Ohioan, was unopposed this year for the Democratic U.S. senatorial nomination.

The only reason is that Dewey still controls the Federal patronage which is mostly disposed of, anyhow, by now. So actually there is no reason why any Republican leader should take his votes to Tom Dewey and most of them will not.

Therefore, if the Eisenhower political manipulators impose Dewey upon the New York State Republicans, they might have to accept him as a nominee, but does that mean that they will have to vote for him on Election Day? Not at all. Most of the party professionals will do the best they can to defeat Dewey and to get him out of their hair, as it were.

And that is the talk that is going around here in both Republican and Democratic circles. In the latter, they still think that Dewey will make a stab at the Vice Presidency if any veritable opposition to Nixon arises, which Republicans who will be convention delegates do not believe will happen.

Fostoria Brothers Given Sentences

TIFFIN (P)—Two Fostoria brothers sentenced here for burglary have been sent to separate institutions.

Frank J. Thompson, 21, charged with burglary of a Fostoria restaurant, was sentenced to 1-15 years in the Ohio Penitentiary. Melvin, 23, was sentenced to a similar term in Mansfield Reformatory for a burglary in nearby Bascom.

will become superintendent of the home after the 1957 retirement of Dr. Edwin L. Morrell, present superintendent.

Children Dig Up Treasure In Bills

COLD SPRING, Minn. (P)—Three small children of Victor Weber and a neighbor boy digging in a garden found broken pieces of a bottle. Alongside the glass the youngsters found two rolls of stained $20 bills.

About $500 was in good condition. Some bills, badly deteriorated have been sent to the Treasury Department in Washington to determine if they are redeemable.

A barn once stood where the Weber children, David, 9; Darlene, 8, and Patrick, 7, and a playmate, Michael Trueman, 8, unearthed the treasure, estimated at nearly $1,000.

Race Discrimination Laid To Ohio Union

CLEVELAND (P)—The city's Community Relations Board has set a public hearing for May 22 on a complaint by a Negro electrician that he had been barred from a union because of his race.

The hearing in the first case of a discrimination charge to go this far under Cleveland's fair employment practices ordinance will be the first of its kind in Ohio.

Theodore Pinkston, 30, made the complaint against Local 38 of the Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. The union had no comment.

Crippled Woman Kills Her Husband

EFFINGHAM, Ill. (P)—A mother crippled by polio hobbled on crutches to a neighbor's home Sunday to report she had shot and killed her husband.

Policeman Jack Barry said Mrs. Naomi Larimer, 33, related that she fired a shotgun at her husband's chest because he was drunk and abusive.

She was held without charge. Mrs. Larimer and her husband Noble, 33-year-old laborer, had two children, 3 years and 21 months.

Ike 'Saluted' At Gridiron Club Affair

WASHINGTON (P)—President Eisenhower was saluted by the Gridiron Club Saturday night as "the first Republican candidate in history who can give medical proof he's got a heart."

Many another quip was tossed into the tobacco smoke as the organization of 50 Washington correspondents held their 71st annual dinner and fun-poking session.

The President was the guest of honor. Among 500 other diners were members of the Cabinet, Congress, the Supreme Court and diplomatic corps, as well as a group of editors and publishers.

Few among the high and mighty escaped unscathed during the evening of skits and songs. The spoofing was friendly but barbed.

By tradition, the only toast of the dinner was to President Eisenhower. His reply was off the record, as were the remarks of Gov. Christian A. Herter of Massachusetts, who spoke for the Republican party, and Sen. Lyndon Johnson of Texas, Senate majority leader, who spoke for the Democrats.

One speech on the record, however, was that of Roscoe Drummond of the New York Herald Tribune, the club's president.

"Surely," he said, "the President must be very pleased tonight to see among us so many fine conservative humanitarians — those Republicans eager to march forward with Eisenhower protesting every step of the way."

Drummond didn't neglect the Democrats. He remarked: "After a moderately long deliberation, a jury of Democrats has Arvie May Hunter, largest of the quads when they were born prematurely April 30 and May 1, died Sunday night of a heart condition. The other three girls died last week.

Unhappy Lover Drives Off Pier

LONG BEACH, Calif. (P)—David Rallsback, 17, met death in the deep water of Long Beach Harbor Sunday, police reported after he drove the family car "screaming wide open" off a fishermen's pier. Authorities, who termed it a suicide, blamed a lovers' quarrel. Rosanne Hegg, 15, Rallsback's date for a Saturday night movie, was quoted as saying they had a quarrel and he "drove away mad" after taking her home.

In Memoriam

IN MEMORIAM
In Loving Memory of William H. Bost who passed away five years ago today May 14, 1951.
Five sad and many happy years have passed. Since our great sorrow fell, the shock we received that day, we still remember well. Moments and days each day we miss him. Friends may think the wound has healed.
Little do they know the heartaches, that are in our heart concealed. To think we could not say "Goodbye", will always bring regrets, but the ones who love him are the ones who won't forget.
William E. Bost and Family.

Trader Frank Lane and the St. Louis Cardinals have drawn first blood in their big five-hurrier trade with the Philadelphia Phillies. Aided considerably by the pitching of Murry Dickson and Herman Wehmeier, the right-handers acquired from the Phillies last Thursday, the Cardinals swept a doubleheader from Chicago Sunday 3-2 and 14-7 to stay on the heels of the flying Milwaukee Braves.

The Braves continued their blistering early pace, overwhelming the Cincinnati Redlegs 15-0 and 6-1 to continue on top of the National League percentage-wise but they still trail the Redbirds by a half game thanks to Dickson and Wehmeier.

The Braves combined brilliant pitching by Warren Spahn and Ray Crone with some lusty hitting to record their 10th and 11th victories in 15 games. Spahn spaced nine hits as he posted his second shutout of the season and 36th of his career, tops among active National League pitchers.

Only a second inning home run by Cincinnati's George Crowe prevented Crone from duplicating Spahn's shutout performance in the nightcap. The Braves pounded eight Cincinnati hurriers for 29 hits in the twin bill with Eddie Mathews, Danny O'Connell and Johnny Logan getting four apiece. Dickson made his first start in his new uniform Sunday and pitched six-hit ball for 2 2/3 innings. In the opener, Ellis Kinder disposed of the last batter to insure the first triumph of the season for Dickson. Wehmeier, working in relief, hurled two scoreless rounds in the nightcap as the Cards overcame a 5-0 deficit.

The fine pitching by the two veterans came simultaneously with a poor exhibition by Harvey Haddix, one of the three pitchers Cards General Manager Lane turned over to the Phillies. The other two are Ben Flowers and Stu Miller. Haddix was bombed by Pittsburgh for six runs in less than six innings as the Pirates came from behind to defeat Philadelphia 11-9 in the first game. The second game was suspended in the eighth inning because of Pennsylvania's Sunday 6 p.m. curfew law with the Phillies leading 6-2.

Brooklyn's Dodgers swept the three-game series with New York, defeating the Giants 6-4 to climb into third place past the Redlegs. Duke Snider clouted a pair of homers, one coming with the bases full, to drive in five runs. New York and Cleveland, running one-two in the American League, were held to splits leaving the Yankees still one game in front of the Indians. Baltimore rebounded from an 11-2 thrashing to defeat the league leaders 5-1. Kansas City ended Cleveland's four-game winning streak with a 5-2 triumph behind the four-hit pitching of Art Ditmar but the Tribe roared back with a 9-4 second game victory.

Chicago, in third place, picked up a half game on the leaders, thrashing the Detroit Tigers 8-1 for Billy Pierce's fourth triumph. Boston, in fourth place, defeated Washington 5-3 to salvage the finale of its three-game set with the Senators.

Redleg Road Trip Expected To Tell Much

CINCINNATI — The Cincinnati Redlegs spend the next 19 days on the road, and the trip is likely to show much about first sacker Ted Kluszewski.

A lot of questions came up yesterday after the benching of Big Klu — a Goliath among the Redleg "muscle men."

Manager Birdie Tebbetts benched the home run slugger after Klu made two errors in the first game of the doubleheader with Milwaukee's Braves.

Tebbetts said, "I had decided before the games that Klu would play in only one of them." The manager did not elaborate. Kluszewski's first error — dropping a throw from shortstop Roy McMillan — allowed one Brave to score and another to reach third and eventually to reach home.

The errors are an unusual development this season for the 32-year-old first baseman. Yesterday's muffs were his sixth and seventh of the season; last year he made only eight.

The Reds were shut out for the first time this season, 15-0, in the opener, lost the second 6-1.

The upcoming road trip will tell much about the Redlegs who made a rapid ascent of the National League standings to second place, but have dropped to fourth, losing four of their last six games.

The Reds first play the Pittsburgh Pirates tomorrow night, with Joe Nuxhall slated to oppose Dick Littlefield.

Indians Face Opportunity To Lead AL

CLEVELAND — Yesterday's doubleheader split with Kansas City sends the Cleveland Indians against the New York Yankees to-night with an opportunity to grab the American League lead for the first time this season.

While the Indians lost to the Athletics 5-2, then won 9-4, the Yankees split with Baltimore. That left the Tribe tied with New York in the lost column, but with two less victories.

Johnny Kucks (3-1), who beat Cleveland in New York, will pitch against Bob Lemon (4-1) tonight. Lemon won the rubber game of last week's three-game series in New York. He needs a victory to-night to lift his 25-25 mark against the Yankees into the black ink.

The Indians got only four hits off Art Ditmar in yesterday's opener but rapped a dozen hits in the nightcap, including three-run homers by Al Rosen and Rocky Colavito.

In the opener the Athletics drove Bob Feller off the mound in the third inning with his first 1956 loss. Three of four men Feller walked scored during two-run Kansas City rallies in the first and third innings.

Harry Simpson had three of the visitors' seven hits. He doubled home a run in the first inning, singled one home in the second and contributed a seventh-inning single to a one-run rally against Cal McLish, who relieved Feller.

The Tribe got only one rally going against Ditmar, scoring two runs in the third inning on a walk, Jim Busby's double and Bob Avila's single.

Herb Score evened his season record at 3-3 in the second game, walking four, fanning six and giving up six hits.

Auto Racing Will Resume Next Sunday

Approximately 500 stock car racing fans were disappointed Sunday when the opening day's events at the Pickaway County Fairgrounds were called off.

Track promoters declared that the group which was to supply the racing cars failed to provide enough cars. The promoters added that rather than put on "half a race," they decided to call the whole thing off.

A new association will provide the competition starting next Sunday. There will be a guaranteed purse for each race. Time trials will now be held at 1:30 p. m. beginning next Sunday. Races will start an hour later. The promoters expressed regret at the inconvenience of those who showed up.

Minnesota '9' Paces Big Ten

CHICAGO — Minnesota's power-packed Gophers may be on their way to their first Big Ten baseball title in 21 years.

Minnesota cracked out 13 home runs in sweeping a doubleheader from Iowa Saturday, 17-7 and 18-8, to take over first place in the conference race as Ohio State's defending champions split with Northwestern.

Ohio State beat Northwestern, 3-0, but lost the second game, 4-3. Indiana split with Wisconsin, winning the opener 5-4 and dropping the nightcap, 6-2; Michigan State beat Illinois twice, 2-0 and 2-1, and Purdue beat Michigan, 7-5, in the first, lost the second, 3-1.

Finsterwald Cops St. Louis Purse

ST. LOUIS — Dow Finsterwald, 26-year-old thumper from Athens, Ohio, made a major move in pro golf circles when he won a pressure-packed victory in the $25,000 St. Louis Open.

It boosted him to the No. 2 spot among the nation's winners. Finsterwald, who only turned pro in 1952 and then spent about two years in the service, posted his fourth sub-par round at Sunset Country Club yesterday for a 72-hole total of 274, 14 under par. He won $5,000.

Landy Schedules No More Races

SAN FRANCISCO — Australia's fleet John Landy, who has run the mile six times under 4 minutes, may not give himself another chance to crack his own world record of 3:58.

The Melbourne schoolteacher flies today to Miami, Fla., for a 10-day holiday after running two under-4-minute miles in seven days in a United States visit of good will for the 1956 Olympics Games in his home country.

Landy breezed the mile in 3:55.1 Saturday night in the West Coast Relays at Fresno.

Porky Oliver Wins Tourney

WHITE SULPHUR SPRINGS, W. Va. — Ed (Porky) Oliver may have discovered that playing less golf is the secret that will finally take him out of the runnerup class so often.

At least, he's going to give a try after it worked so well in bringing him victory yesterday in the White Sulphur Open, his first triumph in three years. He won by three strokes over Sam Snead, the host pro, in his first competition in a couple of months. "It was the best golf I've played in a long time," said Oliver of his 266 for four rounds.

Only about one out of every 10,000 beef steers sent to market is regarded as prime.

Nearly Million Fans See Ohio Basketball Tourneys

COLUMBUS, Ohio — Ohio's high school basketball tournaments just missed the million mark in attendance this year.

From the county tests through the state meet where Middletown and Arcanum copped the championships, a record 989,028 fans paid a record $691,273 to see the 1052 quintets ioelinf.

The attendance figure cracked the old record of 960,700 set in 1954, and the total receipts erased the $661,281 mark established in 1955.

Growth of the annual "lose and out" series in the last 10 years is shown by the fact that in 1946 the attendance was 782,069 and the receipts $429,066. That's a difference of 206,949 in customers, and $262,207 in receipts.

Here's a quick look at the figures for the last 12 years, showing the attendance, receipts and the Ohio High School Athletic Assn's share of the "take":

Year	Att.	Repts.	As'n
1945	570,575	$288,225	$31,286
1946	782,069	429,066	46,135
1947	871,090	497,367	45,815
1948	910,401	535,894	54,267
1949	91,977	566,171	67,746
1950	860,050	515,544	60,070
1951	862,717	558,946	62,633
1952	902,560	586,622	83,380
1953	912,094	633,634	111,045
1954	960,700	655,636	120,976

Thus, in the last dozen years, the state's tournaments have attracted 10,433,354 fans who paid a total of $6,619,658, of which $922,967 went to the state association to finance its various activities. Almost half the year's attendance, 421,139, witnessed the county tournaments this year. Oddly, the biggest Ohio county tournament attendance was attracted in Indiana, the Preble County play-offs at Richmond, Ind., drawing 14,709 fans. Wood County, with 13,577, and Marion with 11,715, were the best within the state, all the others falling under 10,000.

The sectional-district play drew 463,973 fans and receipts of $326,228. The Central District Class A meet at the state fairgrounds coliseum here led the way with 30,739 attendance for a single site, but the Northeastern District, divided into many tournaments, was tops with a 136,811 total. Other attendances by districts were: Central 55,364, Northwestern 94,553, Southeastern 29,720, Southwestern 103,251, and Eastern 44,274.

The regionals, paced by the 15,396 attendance at Toledo where both Class A and Class B played, drew 64,415 fans. Cincinnati was close with 15,135 for its Class A contests, and Kent State was low with 3,983 for the Class B games. Canton drew 10,662, Troy 10,276 Athens 4,841 and Berea 4,102.

Although the attendance at the Cleveland state meet was announced at more than 44,000, the official report was 39,481, with gate receipts of $53,914.50. Of that total $13,478.62 went to Cleveland Arena for rental for the two-day tourney, $9,308 to the state association, and the remainder $1,500 was paid in team bonuses, $6,004 for team expenses, $1,219 for officials, timers and scorers, and $2,657 for movies taken of all games, along with other varied costs.

Instructions For Jury Service Stress American Privilege

Jurors Decide Man's Rights Under Set Law

Any Voter Eligible For Duty; Choice Made By Chance

The Pickaway County Bar Association has arranged to have a manual of information and instructions distributed to those called upon for jury service. Because of the important subjects with which it deals, The Herald will bring the contents of the booklet to all its readers.

The first two of 14 sections in the manual appear below, written for those selected as jurors.

1. Trial by Jury, an American Heritage
Congratulations!

You have been selected to exercise one of the greatest privileges of our American way of life—you, an Ohio juror, have been granted a near-divine power; the legal authority to determine the rights of a fellow man.

This responsibility and privilege is one of the most important rights allowed to be exercised by men and women in the free world and they who serve as jurors are nurturing one of the fundamental roots of democracy.

As a trial moves toward a climax, you will sit as a judge of the facts in a dispute that has arisen between two or more of your neighbors or perhaps as a judge of the facts in an alleged violation of a law by a fellow citizen.

In every law action, a jury is confronted with an important difference of opinions, a confusion of facts, plus the task of interpreting acts, deeds and statements. You must then reach a decision as to which set of facts you believe to be true.

You jurors will be the sole judges of the case's facts. The law will be explained for you and you will be instructed on the law's application to the facts by the judge. But you, and you alone, will determine what are the true facts.

After all the evidence is presented you will be asked to meet, without benefit of judge or lawyers, to reach a decision and to render a verdict. The judge, carefully and precisely, will outline the law that applies to those facts before you retire to the jury room.

The information presented for your aid is a guide to make your duties easier to understand. The judge, a learned and vastly experienced person in the mechanics of the law, will guide and apply the details pertaining to the particular case for which you are serving.

The judge will be explicit; this book is general.
Since the judge is experienced

and learned in the ways of law, perhaps that raises in your mind the often-asked question: "Why doesn't a judge or panel of judges serve as a jury in every instance?"

While the judge or panel of judges sometimes do serve as the jury at the request of the parties, these words of the United States Supreme Court explain why a jury of laymen is often preferred:

"Twelve men to the average of the community, comprising men of learning and men whose learning consists only of what they have themselves seen and heard; the merchant; the mechanic; the farmer; the laborer; these sit together, consult, apply their separate experience of the affairs of life to the facts proven and draw a unanimous conclusion. This average judgment thus given it, is the great effort of the law to obtain. It is assumed that twelve men know more of the common affairs of life than does one man, that they can draw wiser and safer conclusions from admitted facts thus occurring, than can a single judge."

2. How You Were Selected
Generally, any Ohio voter is eligible for jury duty.

Selection of jurors is defined by the laws of the state and actual choice is performed under dictates of those laws by a special Jury Commission and the Clerk of Courts.

Choice of individuals is by lot or chance. This means that some may never be called upon to exercise the privilege of serving while others may be called two or more times.

Jurors are paid a nominal fee for their services. Although the financial returns are small compared with today's average wages, the duty and honor of serving should outweigh inconvenience for any loyal American.

The glow and satisfaction of knowing you have performed a vital civic duty plus the working knowledge you receive of an important phase of our governmental procedure will provide you with lasting benefits.

You will find most trials vastly interesting and the crisp function-

Do-It-Yourself Campaign Opens

RALEIGH, N.C. (AP)—Kidd Brewer, Raleigh businessman running for lieutenant governor, opens his "quarters" today on the steps of the State Board of Education building, across from the state capitol here.

In a statement Sunday, Brewer said, "Everyone will be welcome to our open air headquarters. . . . Since this is to be a 'do it yourself campaign' we will have to depend on the people of the state to do most of the work themselves in their own communities in order that when elected I will not be under obligation to any one person, group, or selfish interest. No contribution for more than $10 from any one person or source will be accepted."

ing of Ohio justice and the emotional panorama of judge, lawyers and witnesses will leave you with a gratifying knowledge that you have taken part in a real-life drama.

No good American shirks jury duty.

Experienced jurors realize, and you who are serving for the first time will soon learn to know that the judge, clerk, bailiff, lawyers and other court aides gladly will help you in any way their ability and court rules allow.

Stock Mart Gets Jittery As Industries Fluctuate

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Detroit takes a long weekend and stock exchanges around the land have the jitters.

Troubles in the auto industry, the farm implement business, parts of the textile industry and in agriculture haven't been news for some time. And booming business in other important industries balanced these weak spots off.

But the shock of a sudden shutdown in a number of auto factories at once jiggles that sensitive barometer, the stock market.

Stock traders, like most Americans have come to feel in recent years that peak auto production and good times are synonymous. They, like most of the citizenry, have been wondering how the general economy could stay so high when Detroit was having trouble selling cars.

Now, the auto-making holiday leads some to review the whole economy. But many think the current jitters are over done, regarding what is happening in the auto industry as but another example of the rolling adjustments, one industry at a time, that have characterized the postwar years.

Detroit explains the drop in auto output at its low point for the year to date as aimed at giving the dealers time to pare record high stocks of unsold 1956 models before new ones arrive.

Another weak spot in the economy—the lower total of farm income—has spread into the industries that supply the farmer with machinery, appliances, fertilizers, or new cars for that matter. But some see signs that the worst of the farm income drop is over.

A third weak spot, home building, shows some signs of firming up with the approach of better weather.

The steel industry, pouring out metal for construction, for ships and freight cars, for bridges and highways, hasn't shown any signs yet of being hurt by the troubles of its prized customer, the auto makers. There's a rush on by steel's customers to get deliveries before July. The order books are full.

Card Game Ends In Fatal Shooting

CINCINNATI (AP)—Joe Richardson, 42, of Cincinnati was arrested yesterday at a fishing lake west of here in the shooting death of Willie Jackson, 26.

City and county police teamed up for the arrest. Investigators said Richardson told them the shooting was in self-defense after a card game argument Saturday.

The 3,000-pound animal was one of 46 Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey elephants being led to the train. The circus closed Sunday night.

Emily Shandler said she had been sick in recent weeks and was about 1,000 pounds underweight. She was 22 years old.
